Sales Tax, or Income Tax? Col. Lindbergh Will Stay. The Senate Says No Beer. Parrots and Sheep Fat.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MERCHANTS SINCERELY interested in public welfare think the sales tax would be harmful. Have they considered the difference between a reasonable sales tax and an unreasonable tax on incomes, big and little, in their effect on business?

Our tariff, which is nothing but a sales tax, runs up to 50 or 60 per cent and more. Excessive income tax knocks down the purchasing power of the public. A four per cent sales tax, like that in Canada, would supply income that the country must have, $4,000,000,000 a year, without hurting anybody.

Some of our good Congressmen suggest that the right idea is to "soak the rich," but the rich have strangely disappeared, and with few exceptions, are no longer here to be soaked.

IT IS SUGGESTED that Col. Lindbergh will move from this country to remain abroad, where the kidnaping industry does not exist.

He would be justified in taking such action, but "quitting" is not a part of the Lindbergh equipment. He will prefer to stay and fight it out with his fellow citizens.

The first part of that fight ought to put in jail those that sought to profit by Col. Lindbergh's great misfortune, deceiving him with lying, criminal statements.

THE SENATE, 61 to 24, rejects legal beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol, in spite of the plea that it would produce great income. Twelve Democrats and twelve Republicans voted for beer, sixty-one against it.

Immediately thereafter, it was overwhelmingly voted to tax heavily the "makings" of home brew and home made wine, although the home brew is not fit to drink, home made wine is imperfect, and both are much stronger than 2.75 per cent in alcohol.

Emerson said:

YOU KNOW those parrot-like birds that lived peaceably on insects until sheep were brought to Australia. Then the birds ate the insects on the sheep. Next, accidentally, they discovered fat on the sheep kidneys, just below the wool, changed from insects to sheeps' kidney fat, and killed thousands of sheep.

As with those Australian birds, so with crime. It passes from one thing to another.

WILLIAM H. MORAN, United States Secret Service chief, says counterfeiting has reached new heights in this country. In 1931, 1,524 were arrested for counterfeiting, a new record. Mr. Moran says depression has hit bootlegging profits and bootleggers have entered the counterfeiting field.

Bootlegging, hi-jacking, racketeering, counterfeiting, kidnaping are profitable. And, as Mr. Capone said, in the Chicago prison:

"You can't expect a young fellow that has been making $300 a week running beer, taking care of his little house and his little family, to be satisfied with $30 a week if you take his beer job away from him."

SENATOR BORAH warns Congressmen that if they adjourn for the political conventions, without having settled "the relief program," "that would be an act of poltroonery," and would bring into existence a third party.

On the other hand, businessmen assure Congress that if it does NOT adjourn, and goes on sitting and hatching brilliant new ideas all summer, business will be scared completely to death.

DR. BACHEM, professor of biophysics, says the routine of industrial mass production does not satisfy our "biological requirements," and must end.

Nevertheless mass production and routine will continue. Without those things a $700 automobile would cost $3,000.

It wouldn't offend anybody's "biological requirements" to work five or six hours a day, five days a week, in mass production, each spending the rest of his life according to his or her psychological and biological requirements.

And the five or six-hour day and five-day week will come eventually. Civilization will have to choose between repeated revolutions and an adjustment of human labor to mechanical efficiency.

LABOR CONDITIONS change. In the time of Henry the Second of England, if an idle workman left his own parish to seek work elsewhere, without permission, he was branded with a red hot iron.

Today you read that a lawyer of the electrical workers' union in New York received more than $500,000 in fees in four years for "advising the union."

The same union paid to other lawyers $15,000, $5,000, $10,000, etc. Conditions improve for unions and lawyers.

GEORGE M. REYNOLDS, of Chicago, says businessmen "without much effort," could cut a thousand million dollars from the government's four thousand millions annual expenses.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, said that he could tell the government how to cut five hundred millions from its expenses. Somebody ought to do that.

TRAIL GANGSTER IN LINDY CASE; SAID HE KNEW BABY WAS DEAD

HUGE DEFICIT SEEN IN CITY TAX DROP

Business Men Will Meet To Consider Predicted 4-Million Revenue Drop

A decrease of $2,266,622 in city revenues for the first four and one-half months of this year has caused leaders of the Chamber of Commerce to call together representatives of leading civic and business organizations for an "emergency" meeting Thursday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce.

This decline in revenues is after allowing for a 10 per cent reduction in the tax levy which was made this year. It does not take into account special revenues from the American Reduction Company and the guarantee of deposit fund which were received last year, but not this year.

BIG DEFICIT SEEN

Persons familiar with the city's declining revenues predict that a deficit of $4,000,000 will exist before the end of the year. This would include a $900,000 deficit carried over from last year.

Controller James P. Kerr, however, did not seem greatly alarmed by the large apparent decrease in revenues. He said:

"All things considered, the city is making a very good showing with collections down only 4 per cent. One reason taxes are not coming in more promptly is that many persons this year elected to pay quarterly."

Kerr said he based the four per cent calculation on the fact that 59.24 per cent of the original billings were collected this year as compared with 65.02 last year.

The very large decrease in the apparent revenue of the city is the thing which has alarmed business and civic leaders. It is pointed out that the tax cut of 2½ mills made at the beginning of this year will have absolutely no effect if the city runs into an immense deficit and has to make a big increase in taxes next year.

TO DEMAND ECONOMY

Demands for new slashes in city payrolls and expenditures seem certain. Such demands may be enforced by an absolute lack of cash in city coffers to meet the bills.

Collection of current city taxes to May 15 amounted to $12,229,946, as compared with $14,909,059 in the same period last year.

Delinquent tax collections were up a trifle for this year, but water rents both for current and former years dropped sharply. Miscellaneous revenues went all to pieces, largely due to the loss of the two large special items.

DRY LAW VOTE FOR C. OF C.

Officials made this announcement today after the appointment of J. S. Crutchfield, of Sewickley, president of the American Fruit Growers, Inc., as a member of the prohibition referendum committee authorized at the twentieth annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce which closes in San Francisco tonight.

'Torch Singer' Secret Bride of Tobacco Heir

LIBBY HOLMAN

Libby Holman Back From Honeymoon With Reynolds

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—Libby Holman, the "torch singer," is married.

Shortly before his marriage, Reynolds flew his wife, the former Anne Cannon, to Reno, where she got a divorce and a $1,000,000 settlement.

Then he flew back, married Miss Holman and they went to Europe on their honeymoon.

The bride hails from St. Louis, where she studied to be a lawyer. But the stage lured her and she made her first hit in "Garrick Gaieties," followed by the "Little Show" and, more recently, "Three's a Crowd."

Clairvoyant Guide For Treasure Hunt

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP.)—A company to find and uncover buried treasure has been founded here on the strength of revelations claimed by Countess Beck, a widely-known clairvoyant, professionally known as Madame Sylvia.

PITT PLAYER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

'Leading Lady' in Two Cap And Gown Shows Grieved Over Death of Mother

Edward C. Bonner, Jr., 19, "leading lady" in two Pitt Cap and Gown shows, lay in a stupor in Homeopathic Hospital today after an attempt to end his life, according to Oakland police. They said he was stricken with grief over the death of his mother, whose funeral is being held today.

Bonner swallowed two tubes of sleep-producing tablets, then turned on the gas in the room of a college chum in the Meyran house, at 209 Meyran avenue, the police reported. When a maid found him unconscious, police administered two tanks of oxygen, then rushed him to the hospital.

MOTHER DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Bonner, of Industry street, died Tuesday in the same hospital where her son now lies.

Telling his father he was going to sleep with a friend, Bonner left home Wednesday night, police said they were told. The parent had not heard of him until last night, when word of the attempted suicide reached him.

Bonner attended the School of Education and was to graduate next month. He is the only child in the family.

Bonner played the leading roles in the last two Cap and Gown shows — "Manhattan Preferred" and "What's Up?"

PLANNED TRIP ABROAD

Bonner was planning to sail for Germany the last of June, for a year's study at German universities. He was to spend the summer at Heidelberg, later going to the University of Berlin.

Explaining his trip a short time ago, Bonner said:

"I want to get away for about a year, I am especially interested in German cultural customs and literature, and the only real way to study them is to go to Germany. I am also interested in philosophy and hope eventually to get my doctor's degree."

Bonner has taken several courses in German at Pitt and expected to "finish off," as he termed it, his study of the language. He also said he wanted to spend some time traveling through Germany and France.

NEW KIDNAPING LINKED IN HUNT AS DEAN REBUFFS POLICE

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 20.—(AP.)—Balked in renewed eorts to induce the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock to come here for questioning, police hunting the kidnaper-murderers of the Lindbergh baby sought help today from two mysterious sources.

On of these was a "known gangster" who was understood to have said in Maryland before the body was found that the baby was dead.

The other mysterious matter under investigation was to determine if there was any conection with the Lindbergh case was "the recent attempted King kidnaping," not more specifically described by police for fear of hindering the investigation.

While these investigations were going forward, Dr. John F. Condon, who as "Jafsie" paid a futile $5,000 ransom to supposed kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, told a Bronx County (N. Y.) grand jury how he handed the money through a cemetery hedge in a suitcase.

RELATIVES SEEK TO GET BAIL FOR CURTIS

John Hughes Curtis, confessed Norfolk hoaxer, remained in jail at Flemington (N. J.), as relatives in Virginia prepared to obtain his release by raising the $10,000 bail in which he is held for grand jury action.

Police let it be known that they were still very anxious to confront Curtis with Dean Dobson-Peacock, who was associated with him in negotiations for return of the baby which Curtis admits were all faked.

In his morning bulletin Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey state police, said he would gladly pay th minister's traveling expenses, but the dean replied in Norfolk that he had been advised by counsel not to come here.

HUNT FOR GANGSTER

Schwarzkopf's bulletin today merely said:

"Investigators from this point are getting all data possible on the recent attempted King kidnaping in an endeavor to determine whether the perpetra-

'Jafsie' Waives Immunity in Talk to Jury

NEW YORK, May 20.—For two hours and a quarter today, Dr. John F. Condon, aged "Jafsie," of the Lindbergh kidnap case, told the Bronx grand jury of his futile payment of $50,000 ransom to supposed kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby. Before testifying he signed a waiver of immunity.

He seemed tired when he came from the grand jury room at noon and joined his son-in-law, Ralph Hacker, of Leonia, N. J., who was waiting for him.

Hacker said Dr. Condon would not start his tour of New Jersey rogues' galleries today, but would drive to New Rochelle, N. Y., to give a lecture in a school there.

POLICEMEN SUMMONED

The aged Bronx educator, who told the grand jury today how he handed the $50,000 through a cemetery hedge to one of the supposed kidnapers of the murdered child, was the first witness called when the grand jury resumed its investigation today of the ransom payment.

The only other witnesses on hand were Detective Charles Winter-Halpern, of Westchester County, and Police Sergeant James Finn, of New York City. Finn acted as police aide to Col. Lindbergh when the aviator returned from the ocean flight that made

Clark to Confer On Lindbergh Case

Public Safety Director James M. Clark today was conferring on the Lindbergh kidnaping case at the executive committee meeting of the International Police Chiefs' Conference in New York City. While world crime conditions were to be discussed, the principal matter before the committee, of which Clark is a member, would be analysis of the Lindbergh matter, he said before departing last night.

AMELIA REACHES HARBOR GRACE

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, May 20.—(AP.)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, attempting the first trans-Atlantic solo flight by a woman, landed here today at 12:31 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) from St. John, New Brunswick, where she took off today at 8:23 a. m.

She plans to get away from Harbor Grace on the ocean hop as soon as possible after refueling and rechecking her plane, if weather conditions are favorable.

Bernt Balchen was at the controls of the Earhart plane at the takeoff today.

A mechanic also was in the party, but both Balchen and the aide will be dropped here, Grace.

HOLYROOD, N. F., May 20.—(AP.)—The giant airplane DO-X, en route to Europe, landed at Holyrood at 10:20 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) after flying from Dildo, where is was forced to land yesterday.

TWO MYSTERY LEADS TRACED IN HUNT FOR LINDY KILLERS

NEW KIDNAPING BEING PROBED IN SECRET

ters could be linked with the kidnapers in this case.

"A known gangster, while passing through Maryland stated that he had information on the Lindbergh kidnaping and just prior to the finding of the body stated that the child was dead. Investigators from this point are now endeavoring to locate this gangster."

LINDY LEADS HUNT

Under personal direction of Col. Lindbergh, who five years ago today started across the Atlantic on his flight to Paris, the search was renewed from the very beginning yesterday when a detective with a bundle in his arms to represent the baby climbed out of the nursery window and took the trail of footsteps the father found on the night of March 1 when he rushed out in search on the abductors of his first-born.

While the movements of Col. Lindbergh and a group of detectives and state police were a re-enactment of the first search there was a vast difference.

On the original trip over the ground the searchers were spurred by the hope the child would be recovered and restored safely to his parents' arms. That hope went out a week ago when the body of the baby was found under a covering of leaves less than five miles from the Lindbergh home.

The trip over the same ground yesterday was made in the hope that some hitherto overlooked clue might be found that would lead to the identification and capture of the kidnaper-murderers.

From the foot of the ladder Col. Lindbergh led the party along the trail which had been followed for two miles from the house the day after the kidnaping. The beds of the two small streams which traverse the Lindbergh estate were carefully examined on the possibility that the kidnapers might have followed them to destroy any scent that could have been picked up by dogs.

Dean Still Shuns Trip Despite Expenses Offer

NORFOLK, Va., May 20.—(AP)—Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, associate of John Hughes Curtis in the Lindbergh negotiations which Curtis confessed he faked, today said the offer of New Jersey police to pay his way to Hopewell for questioning would not influence him in his decision not to make the requested trip.

Speaking of the telegram sent yesterday to the head of the New Jersey state police, saying he would be willing to be questioned if a representative were sent here, the dean said:

"Col. Schwarzkopf has my answer to that already."

DEVELOPMENT EXPECTED

Col. Charles B. Borland, director of public safety, said he was expecting some development soon in his investigation of the local angle of the hoax confessed by the Norfolk boat builder. He would not divulge the nature of this expected development.

John M. Arnold, commonwealth's attorney of Norfolk, said he is keeping open his investigation to determine if any Virginia law was violated by Curtis. He said no such evidence was found in his questioning of Dean Dobson-Peacock and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, associated with Curtis in the imaginary maneuvers to meet imaginary men. The same was true, he said, concerning his interview with Capt. F. H. Lackmann, pilot of the yacht Marron, aboard which Col. Lindbergh accompanied Curtis during two weeks of trips to sea in search of a phantom boat.

Col. Borland said the arrest in Philadelphia of Samuel B. Vernikoff, mentioned by Curtis as one of the men with whom he had been dealing, had no bearing on his investigation. Federal authorities, however, are interested in the arrest of Vernikoff, and are also seeking Sam Goldberg, another man to whom Curtis referred. Bench warrants were issued for both men.

Note Held Dean's Tells Of Meeting Gangsters

LONDON, May 20.—(Universal.)—The Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, of Norfolk, Va., actually talked to gangsters and gunmen and used an assumed name to assist John Hughes Curtis "negotiate" with the Lindbergh kidnapers, according to a letter made public here.

The letter, printed in the London Daily Express, purports to have been written by Dean Dobson-Peacock to his mother. It was written in New York and is dated only "3:30 a. m." It reads, in part:

"Just got in from the weirdest experience. Yesterday at 1 p. m. I received a telephone call from New York, asking me to fly up to meet one of the kidnapers. They gave me a name to use—James Hill—and the name of a hotel to stay at—one of the swankiest hotels in New York.

DESCRIBES TRIP

"I left Norfolk at 4:30 o'clock yesterday, reached Washington and then New York at 8 p. m. I drove to the hotel and just reached my room when a man knocked at my door and asked me to follow him.

"He said he was instructed to take me to another hotel. I refused to go, asking him to inform those who wanted to see me they must come to my hotel. The man left.

"Shortly afterward, the phone rang and a very cultured voice informed me he must see me at his hotel; that a man would come for me and would be sitting in the lobby when I reached the ground floor of the hotel.

"In the meantime, my friend, Mr. Curtis, had got back with Col. Lindbergh to New York, and all of us were under assumed names.

"Knowing where he was staying, I managed to evade the man looking for men, to join them. They advised me to return to my hotel to see the man or men and report back. This I did, but never again!

"I was with two real gangsters for two hours. It's lucky I got away with my life. However, I didn't appear afraid, and humored them somewhat, and promised to see them tomorrow. I got all the information I wanted, and it all fits in with the plans we have made.

"Tomorrow, or rather, today, we use a passenger plane belonging to the Navy. If our plan works, we will take the child off a boat about 20 miles out at sea and fly to Norfolk, where Col. Lindbergh will meet us.

"After our conference tonight, Lindbergh started for Norfolk by motorcar; we are using a hydroairplane."

Possible Link of Means And Norfolk Men Probed

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS.)—Federal agents, following the multiple trails of the Lindbergh case, are now endeavoring to ascertain whether the paths of the Norfolk "negotiators" and Gaston B. Means did not cross at one stage of the wierd maneuvering.

Means, ex-federal agent himself and ex-convict as well, comes to trial here on June 6, charged with swindling Mrs. E. B. McLean, wife of the Washington publisher, out of $104,000, which Mrs. McLean gave him upon his representation that he was in contact with the kidnapers and could obtain release of the child for $100,000 of that amount.

DEAN SHOWN PICTURE

Authorities consider Means' tale of long drawn out "negotiations" and hurried trips about the country fully as fantastic as that of John Hughes Curtis and the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, the Norfolk negotiators.

Means' explanation of the disposition of the $100,000 is that he turned it over to a supposed emissary of Mrs. McLean's, who gave him the mysterious symbol of "No. 11" on the Alexandria pike. This was the code number assigned to Mrs. McLean in the bizarre proceedings.

Federal agents have visited Norfolk since the collapse of the Curtis story, it was learned today, and showed Dean Dobson-Peacock a photograph of Means, asking whether it resembled either of the two mysterious "gangsters" that the minister says came to his rooms in a New York hotel and negotiated with him. The dean's answer was that he could not be sure, according to Department of Justice officials.

RANSOM DEMAND CITED

The minister's story was that the supposed gangsters offered to return the child to him for $500 cash and $50,000 ransom. It was after this, according to the authorities, that he and Curtis tried to have Lindbergh deposit $25,000 to their credit in a Norfolk bank.

While there has been no intimation that the trails of Curtis, who hoaxed Lindbergh, and Means, who allegedly hoaxed Mrs. McLean, ever crossed, Department of Justice agents are leaving no stone unturned in their investigation.

Norfolk Men's Pilot Transferred by Navy

NORFOLK, Va., May 20.—(AP.)—Lieut. G. L. Richard, for the past two years aide to the commanding officer of the Hampton Roads Naval Air Base and prominent in the news recently as a result of his activities in the Lindbergh case, serving as air pilot for Norfolk "negotiators," has been ordered transferred to the Aircraft Carrier Lexington.

The transfer becomes effective as soon as the Lexington arrives on the East Coast. She is now at the Puget Sound Navy Yard.

Doak Holds Johnson Case Routine Affair

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—The case of Henry (Red) Johnson, alien sailor suitor of Betty Gow, Lindbergh nurse, was described today by Secretary Doak as a "routine deportation" matter.

Despite pressure being brought to bear, the Labor Department head added, Johnson, now held at Ellis Island, will be deported unless some court of other action is taken to prevent it.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY LINDY BRAVED SEA

Aerial History Made, New Hero Born With First Solo Flight, N. Y. to Paris

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—it was just "Slim" then, and no one paying much attention—stepped into an airplane five years ago today with a pair of ham sandwiches, and flew to Paris.

May 20, 1927, at 6:52 o'clock in the morning; a date in the history books till the end of time.

MAIL DAYS GONE

It is "Slim" Lindbergh no longer. Gone are the days of flying the mail on the Chicago-St. Louis run, wrapping long legs around a lunch-wagon stool, washing down a nickel roll with thin coffee, and risking his neck time after time in flying "crates;" gone the days of leaps in the night from planes, and the "feel" of a parachute "catching hold" as he shot down like a stone through black night.

History wrote Lindbergh out of that when he set the Spirit of St. Louis down at Le Bourget, Paris, amid a hundred thousand frantic, joyous, arm-waving, cheering Frenchmen and said simply:

"I am Charles Lindbergh."

FIVE YEARS OF DRAMA

The intervening five years have been choked with drama for the Detroit boy who made good in the skies. Medals from Congress; gold in pockets never too heavy with it; honors from royalty; parades, receptions, cheers—glory beyond all his dreams; marriage to the daughter of a Morgan partner; parenthood, which was the greatest honor of all; and today, only five years removed from virtual anonymity, he stood forth before a deeply sympathetic world, tragically stripped of parenthood by murder.

YOUNG LEADING GIGANTIC WAR ON SLUMP

America's Most Powerful Resources in Campaign To Free Frozen Credit

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Mobilization of the most powerful banking and industrial resources of the nation in a campaign, comparable only to the gigantic campaigns of World War days, to put the nation's frozen and hoarded billions back in circulation, relieve distress, revive industry, and give employment to millions, was disclosed today.

The drive was revealed in announcement of Gov. George L. Harrison, of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, that a committee of 12 bankers and industrialists, headed by Owen D. Young, had been formed to aid in putting to work the hundreds of millions of dollars being poured into the market by the Federal Reserve System in its credit expansion program.

CREDIT SUPPORT

In the last 12 weeks the Reserve System has purchased $725,000,000 of United States government securities, putting into the market funds capable of supporting $7,250,000,000 of bank credit.

But in spite of this enormous expansion of available funds, the deflation of bank loans and investments has been unchecked. Uncertainty on the part of bankers and the investment public alike have prevented the Reserve's policy from taking its full effects. In the face of this delay a demand has arisen in many quarters for more drastic means of stimulating a recovery in prices.

By the formation of the new committee, financial authorities hope to make the Federal Reserve's policy effective, and through the medium of the group means be found for bringing together the vast surplus of idle funds in the bank and the many worthy projects in need of credit that exist throughout the country.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

The membership of the committee, as announced by Harrison, follows:

Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Company, chairman; Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman, New York Trust Company; Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman, Consolidated Gas Company; Walter S. Gifford, president, American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Charles E. Mitchell, chairman, National City Bank; William C. Potter, president, Guaranty Trust Company; Jackson E. Reynolds, president, First National Bank; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, General Motors Corporation; Walter C. Teagle, president, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; A. A. Tilney, chairman, Bankers Trust Company; Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of governing board, Chase National Bank, and Clarence M. Wooley, chairman, American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation.

4 HELD GUILTY OF VOTE FRAUDS

Four members of election boards were convicted and four freed on charges of violating the election laws in sealed verdicts opened today in Criminal Court.

W. C. Stewart, judge of elections, was the only board member in the Fifth District of the Twenty-fifth Ward convicted. Acquitted were Elizabeth Hinds, Edward Pierce, G. Montgomery and Thomas Edeburn.

All three defendants from the First District of the Fourth Ward were found guilty. They are Chester Basial, John Patton and William Murray.

All were accused of allowing to vote, at the November election, persons whose names had been stricken from the registration lists.

49 Still Missing In Ship Disaster

PARIS, May 20.—(INS.)—The Compagnie Des Messagaries Maritime today announced only 49 persons were missing in the burning of its new liner Georges Phillipar in the Gulf of Aden several days ago. 'JAFSIE' HEARD BY GRAND JURY him famous and has been working on the kidnap case.

Dr. Condon drove to the courthouse from his Decatur avenue home, his son-in-law acting as his chauffeur. He was not accompanied by his bodyguard, Al Reich, former pugilist, who drove his car April 2 when the ransom money was paid by "Jafsie" to a representative of the supposed kidnapers in St. Raymond's Cemetery, while Col. Lindbergh sat in an automobile nearby.

Dr. Condon's automobile was followed this morning by a car carrying two detectives. The aged educator took a seat in the anteroom a few minutes before the grand jury was scheduled to convene.

TELLS OF TEACHER

Dr. Condon, returning last night from a trip to West Point, described the letter written him by Mrs. Mary G. Ford, Brooklyn school teacher, seeking financial aid as one of "about 1,500" such requests he had received recently.

Behind the closed doors of the Brooklyn District Attorney's office, officials questioned Mrs. Ford for several hours.

In another room other officers interrogated the teacher's daughter, Miss Barbara Ford, whom they located in a Riverside drive apartment.

Both told substantially the same story of their contact with the aged "Jafsie," and later were released.

District Attorney W. F. X. Geoghan said he neither believed nor disbelieved their explanation, but would continue an investigation.

SOUGHT JAFSIE'S HELP

Mrs. Ford told her questioners a story of being in financial straits, thinking "Jafsie" might be able to aid her, and appealing to him in vain for $2,500.

Information supplied by public school officials started detectives off on this new tangent. They had heard Mrs. Ford talk to Dr. Condon by telephone, they said, and knew she was absent from her duties between February 25 through March 1, the day of the kidnaping.

When they asked her about her conversation with "Jafsie," they told officials, she denied it was Dr. Condon she had spoken to and said it was her daughter's physician.

NOTE ON LINDY SENT WALKER

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—The New York Evening Post says today it has learned from a high authority that Mayor James J. Walker has received a letter promising information of the Lindbergh baby murder if guarantee of safety for the writer can be obtained.

The story also quotes the following public notice appearing in the New York Times this morning:

"Citizen—Guarantee absolute confidence, Jimmy."

The letter received by the Mayor, it was said, impressed him and his advisers. Its precise nature was not revealed, nor would the Mayor confirm the report he had received it.

3 HELD ON OLD ARSON CHARGES

Three men said by county detectives to have confessed implication in an arson plot were being held today on charges filed before Alderman A. C. Marcus, of McKeesport, by County Detectives James Reddington and James O'Brien, following an investigation that lasted seven months.

They are Samuel Kelin, 50, Glassport merchant, who owned a dwelling in Erie street, Glassport, which was destroyed by an explosion; Joseph Diajocol, of Glassport, and Ignatz Feldman, of McKeesport.

Detectives said Klein admitted he had agreed to pay members of the arson ring $800 for destroying the dwelling. He further said, according to Reddington, that he collected $5,500 insurance after the explosion.

Diajocolo and Feldman, detectives said, admitted that they moved into the house and lived there until the explosion.

Lindy Baby Slain to Avoid Risk, Hibben's Theory

By ROBERT J. CAVAGNARO

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20.—(AP.)—The close of a week of startling developments which began with the finding of the body of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., finds John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University and intimate friend of the Lindberghs, still clinging to his belief that the child was stolen for ransom.

For the first time since the Lindbergh baby was abducted, the head of Princeton today disclosed his theory on the crime of the century. He said:

"To me it is very obvious that this crime was conceived and carried out by gangsters whose motive was the obtaining as much of a ransom as they could from Col. Lindbergh.

"To carry out their plans they evidently were perfectly willing to murder an innocent child as well as kidnap it."

Hibben said he doubted the possibility that panic inspired the slaying of the child. He declared:

"Gangsters as a rule are pretty cold brutes. The gangsters in this crime may have become frightened after the kidnaping but I doubt it.

"It is quite possible that they believed possession of the child highly dangerous to them and figured their chances of collecting a large ransom were just as good, if not better, with the baby out of the way.

"The greatest fear of the gangsters no doubt was the difficulty of returning the child without being caught. And to overcome it they killed it, striking it over the head with a blunt instrument, probably a hammer."

Mr. and Mrs. Hibben are frequent visitors to the Lindberghs' Sourland Mountain home. They were among the first to express their condolence to the Lindbergs.

ORPHANS COURT UPHOLDS BASSETT NOTE REVOKING WILL

Costs of Appeal Placed on Claude B. Sharp, Accused Of Duress by Evangelist

A letter written by Ira S. Bassett, "businessman evangelist," today was ruled a legal revocation of a previously signed will by Judge Thomas J. Trimble in Orphans Court. Judge Trimble's decision upholds the action of the Register of Wills Office in refusing to accept the will, which named Claude B. Sharp, Jr., as executor, in view of the letter of retraction.

DAUGHTER UPHELD

The court also ruled that the appointment of Bassett's daughter, Mrs. Genieve B. Mark, as administratrix was legal and that the disposition of the estate, therefore, now is in her hands.

Sharp appealed the Register of Wills ruling to court and when his petition was refused today, Judge Trimble ordered that he pay the court costs.

The will upon which Sharp based his claim to executorship was dated two days before his revocation request. The latter read:

"Again on the eleventh day of March, I have been compelled, yes, forced to make a will and sign other papers which I declare now that shall not stand. I was forced to make this wherein Mr. Claude B. Sharp, Jr., is given right to be my executor and I don't know what else.

"They must not be treated as worth anything in event of my death. No, no, never. I am in my right mind and now say they must not stand."

HIDDEN CASH SOUGHT

Bassett's death, which occured in his home, 1304 Macon avenue, on October 31, 1931, was immediately followed by claims of creditors who said they had lost heavily on investment engineered by the evangelist.

Through Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, these creditors started a search for hidden assets of Bassett which they claimed should aggregate $1,000,000, but none of which have been found.

SUSPECT DROPS HOLDUP CASH

While Philip Passerelli sat in his car with a rifle across his knee to guard against bandits, a robber parked his machine alongside and held up Philip's brother, Alec, at the new Penn Barbecue, Library road, early today, County Detective Frank Ritz reported.

With $85 loot the robber sped away, pursued a moment later by the two brothers.

They came upon a suspect getting gas for his car at the Shannon service station nearby. When they accused him of being the holdup man he dropped a roll of bills and ran. Philip Passerelli fired several shots.

The license plates on the automobile which the bandit drove were issued to Nick Yerino, of Lawrence, Pa., police said.

HUNT TO TALK FROM TOKIO

NEW YORK, May 20.—(Universal.)—Frazier Hunt, famous correspondent, will broadcast from Tokio an up-to-the-minute account of Japan's crisis in an international radio address at 6:45 p. m. today.

Hunt, whose cables etched a dramatic word picture of the assassination of Premier Inukai and Tokio's subsequent reign of terror, will speak for 15 minutes from station JOAK in Tokio.

His voice will be carried to San Francisco by short wave, then rebroadcast over a National Broadcasting Company network. The talk will also be rebroadcast to the Far East from Oakland, Cal., and to Australia and South America from Schenectady, N. Y.

Jap Envoy to U. S. Sees End of Crisis

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—The clouds today casting their shadows upon the Pacific will soon pass away, and Japanese relations between Japan and America will remain sound and friendly, Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to the United States, said at the twenty-fifth anniversary dinner of the Japan Society last night.

George W. Wickersham, who spoke at the banquet, said the Japan Society always felt that on the continuance of good relations between the two countries depended, in a large measure, the peace of the world.

COUNTY TO END GOLF DELAY

Delay in securing permits to play golf on the county park links is to be eliminated. Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield, in a conference today, decided to expedite assessment of persons who, although they want to play golf, have no tax receipts.

A recent ruling of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes provides that assessment affidavits, made by prospective golfers, be held 15 days for investigation to save trouble of clerks making a daily report to the Treasurer's office. Mansfield suggested that this rule be abrogated immediately, to give golf privilege applicants permits when they apply for them.

Now all a person yearning for golf need do is: Get assessed, pay his taxes and get a receipt, make application for a golf permit, have his photograph taken, passport size, paste it on his identification card, pay his $10 and go out to North or South Park and play.

Bay Ferries Dodge Floating Dynamite

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—(AP.)—Trans-bay commuting took on a new thrill today as a dynamite barge loaded with 2,000 cases of high explosives suffered a sudden shift of cargo, dropping several hundred boxes of dynamite into the bay near the edge of the ferry route.

Ferryboat captains were warned to pick their way with care lest they ram some of the floating boxes.

CHECK WRITER USED TO SIGN PAYROLLS

Mayor Authorizes Use So Employes May Suffer No Long Delay Getting Cash

Mayor Charles H. Kline today authorized use of the city's check-signing machine on the payrolls for employes of the Mayview, Tuberculosis and Municipal hospitals and the bureaus of Recreation and City Property and for routine city purchases.

Signing of the rolls has been delayed since Monday because the Mayor was opposed to using the machine, which placed his name on a check given in payment to a truck dealer in advance of the delivery of his order and resulted in the Mayor's conviction at Butler last week on one count of his malfeasance indictments.

SOLICITOR APPROVES

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, however, advised Mayor Kline that there could be no objection to the machine's use in payroll signings, and the Mayor this morning issued the order which will release the checks of approximately 500 employes, held up since Monday due to his unwillingness to have the machine used.

Bertram L. Succop conferred yesterday with his attorney, E. L. Kearns, after it was revealed that former Judge James M. Galbreath at Butler, member of the Kline-Succop defense counsel, had made one motion for Kline that he did not make Succop.

ASK VERDICT VOIDED

A motion was filed for both defendants fo, a new trial and in arrest of judgment. For Kline alone, there was a motion to set aside the verdict. This apparently surprised Succop, but his counsel denied a trip to Butler would be made to file a similar motion for him.

Kearns said:

"If we are going to Butler, we do not know anything about it yet."

Edward G. Coll, member of the Kline defense counsel, has declared efforts will be made to arrange for the arguments on the motions before Judge Thomas D. Finletter as soon as possible.

FAMILY 'BROKE,' FUND RAISED

Pittsburgh policemen have a heart. That's all Walter Brent, of Omaha, Neb., could say after Traffic Officers John Graw and Frank (Hank) Brush found him, his wife and two children, sitting forlornly on the curb at Fifth avenue and Grant street this morning, and in less than half an hour raised a fund of $48, provided free meals, taxi ride and a bus for Syracuse, N. Y.

Graw launched the fund with $1. Then the money literally rained on the needy family, from windows in the courthouse and a crowd of bystanders.

Brent and his family left Omaha 10 days ago for a little farm in Syracuse, where he will be able to work.

Their machine broke down in Des Moines, Iowa, and they hitchhiked to Pittsburgh, where they spent last night in a bus station, according to the father.

Brent said:

"I never thought human beings could be so nice."

BANKER TELLS OF 60 MILLION STOCK LOSS

Goldman-Sachs Investors Paid $90,000,000, Senate Wall St. Probe Learns

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A $60,000,000 loss to stockholders in the Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation was casually explained to the Senate Stock Market Investigating Committee today by its president, Walter E. Sachs, of New York.

He said the trading corporation was organized by the banking house of Goldman, Sachs & Co. The banking firm put $10,000,000 into the trading corporation, selling $90,000,000 in stock to the general public, he explained.

"How much capital has the corporation now?"

60 MILLION LOST

"Then you lost $60,000,000 of the money collected from the public?"

Sachs affirmed.

The stock was issued at 104, split up later to give it a par value of 52 and is now selling at 1¾. Sachs said the public took $90,000,000 of the stock at 104.

"Who managed this trading corporation?"

"Goldman, Sachs & Co. managed it, under the supervision of the board of directors, but a majority of the directors were partners in our company."

Before Sachs took the stand, William A. Gray, committee investigator, presented figures showing the fluctuations in Kolster Radio before, during and after it was handled by George F. Breen, New York "free lance" trader. Breen testified yesterday he made more than $1,000,000 selling the stock for Rudolph Spreckles, California multi-millionaire.

MOTORS LINKED

The revelation of pool operations by which traders reaped millions in profits, was to be extended to include the Chrysler and Indian Motorcycle pools.

Gray announced his relevations would include the activities of H. B. Warner on the long side of the market in his own stock. Warner was subpenaed to appear today.

Gray announced today a subpena had been issued for A. Newton Plummer, described as a broker's contact man, who is supposed to have had the placing of $286,000 worth of paid financial advertising in connection with certain stock movements during the boom period.

The Radio pool furnished the greatest stir, because there were so many unexplained mysteries in the handling of that stock. The broker's records, taken from M. J. Meehan & Co., revealed a number of prominent citizens sharing in the pool's tremendous profits without investing.

Some of the beneficiaries of this peculiar arrangement were T. J. Mara, $87,513; Mrs. M. J. Meehan, $87,513; J. N. Riordan, $72,927; Henry B. Swope, $58,342; Mrs. D. Sarnoff, $58,342, and the Fisher brothers for a total of $116,684.

HOME LOAN BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS.)—The administration bill for a system of home loan discount banks was reported for passage today by the House Banking Committee.

Under the terms of the bill home loan banks would be established in the Federal Reserve districts of the country to discount paper on building and loan associations and other institutions in an effort to make home building easier for the average citizen.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation would provide the initial capital stock of $125,000,000, but the system is designed as a private institution similar to the Federal Reserve System.

The committee vote was 13 to 6.

BIRTH CONTROL FOES ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret Sanger, advocate of birth control, told a Senate committee that opposition to it was based "mainly on personal opinions and not backed up by facts."

She appeared as the first rebuttal witness in the committee's hearings on a bill by Senator Hatfield (Rep.), of West Virginia, to permit physicians to disseminate birth control information. She said:

"The claim that the bill will throw the mails wide open to free and illicit distribution of information is unsupported."

She contended it would "merely permit" doctors and others in the medical profession to prescribe such information and materials as might be necessary.

As for statements the American Medical Association was against the bill, Mrs. Sanger said that organization took no action on it at its recent national convention.

ESCAPES CHAIR BY 10 MINUTES

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 20.—(AP.)—Albert Jackson was saved from the electric chair, for a time at least, by a bare 10 minutes today.

The prisoner's head had been shaved and he was waiting at his cell door for guards to lead him to the execution chamber. The prison electrician stood at the switch and a doctor was in readiness to make the examination after the execution, when a reprieve signed by Gov. Jackson arrived.

Grouped in the small chamber were 25 persons from the community in which Jackson, a Negro, was convicted of murdering an aged farmer and his wife.

The Governor explained he granted a 30-day respite to allow the state prison commission to investigate the case.

GARNER ORDERS RELIEF BILL DRAWN

Three-Point Program to Be Rushed in House; Speaker Defends Limit on Bonds

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service

WASHINGTON, May 20 —Prepared to seek early action on his $2,100,000,000 relief program, Speaker John N. Garner, of the House, today directed legislative counsel to place the program in bill form.

Garner said that he would not introduce the bill himself. The program is expected to be divided between three committees.

TO PUSH BILL

The relief program, which embraces $100,000,000 to be used by the President for direct relief, $1,000,000,000 to be administered by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $1,000,000,000 for federal public work, may be pushed through the House next week.

Explaining the plan, Garner said the public works program was a one-year plan, and could be elaborated upon in the next session, if necessary.

He criticized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for passing by "the great middle corporate class" in administering the affairs of the $2,000,000,000 organization.

Under present legal restrictions, he said, the corporation had loaned to railroads and other big institutions and to tenant farmers but ignored the "smaller fellow." He said:

JOBS INTENDED

"It has skipped the great corporate middle class."

He added that Congress intended that the corporation would make loans which would provide employment.

Under his own relief plan, he said all restrictions on loans would be removed. The corporation would have power to make loans to cities and states for public works and to corporations which might provide jobs.

Defending the limit of $1,000,000,000 for a public works program which has been criticized by some members as being too small, Garner said it would be difficult to spend $1,000,000,000 in one year. Congress, he noted, could elaborate on the program next winter.

PINCHOT AGAIN URGES JOB AID

EVANSTON, Ill., May 20.—(INS.)—Flotation of a huge bond issue to finance public works throughout the country to spur the return of prosperity was advocated today by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania.

Addressing the Young Republican Club here, Gov. Pinchot last night charged that the Democrats have been the tools of the Republicans and that the Republicans have been the tools of selfish captains of industry and finance.

The Governor advocated a six-year term for presidency and no second term.

He said the flotation of a public works bond issue is essential to stimulating normal trade throughout the nation.

RITCHIE URGES 30-HOUR WEEK

BALTIMORE, May 20.—(INS.)—A 30-hour week of five working days was proposed to radio listeners by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie as a remedy for unemployment. He urged Congress to settle its differences on the problem of relief and balancing the budget. He said:

"Every day of delay in meeting these problems adds to the loss of confidence and the fear that throttles American business.

"There must be no more jockeying for political advantage, and no more wasted time. Our national welfare is threatened and unless we rescue and preserve it, little else will count."

He took issue with the various efforts to include in the revenue bill tariffs on oil, coal, copper and lumber, on the ground that the excessive and devastating rates of the present tariff law must be reduced.

Under the direction of Potentate Karl Rex Hammers, the program will consist of a puppet show and talking "movies" made especially for children.

Each child will also receive a box of candy, the gift of members of the temple. Members will call for the children and drive them to the temple. The volunteer chauffeurs will be served lunch in the Mosque banquet hall.

FARM RELIEF PLAN FAVORED

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—The three-fold farm relief plan of the major farm organizations, calling for the equalization fee, export debentures and a domestic allotment plan of distributing, was reported favorably today by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The committee made only minor changes in the wording of the measure as presented by the National Grange, the National Farmers' Union and the American Farm Bureau Federation, which agreed upon and drafted it.

The measure authorizes the Farm Board to put into effect any one or combinations of the three plans when considered necessary to assist agriculture.

The vote was not announced by Chairman McNary.

SENATE LOBBY PROBE ASKED BY WHEELER

Montana Member Qotes Hoover, Reed on Pressure Being Used in Tax Fight

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—A demand for a congressional investigation of lobbyists was laid before the Senate today by Senator Wheeler (Dem., o)f Montana, in the midst of debate on the tax bill.

Wheeler coupled with his demand a resolution to authorize the inquiry.

QUOTES HOOVER

Wheeler in a brief statement, explaining the resolution he was introducing, referred to "the recent charge of the President that lobbyists are haunting the halls of Congress."

This assertion of Mr. Hoover, he said, and statements by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, and others that lobbyists were throwing all their pressure on members of Congress warranted looking into.

An extensive investigation of lobbyists was made by a Senate committee in 1929-30 which continued about 10 months.

Meanwhile, in the midst of a wordy tariff dispute that held the tax bill motionless in the Senate, President Hoover emphasized today to Congressional leaders that he expected Congress to consider no adjournment plans until the revenue bill is passed.

TARIFF FOES ACTIVE

Opponents of the import taxes renewed their assault at today's session with a new threat for general tariff revision involving months of work if the oil, coal, copper and lumber import taxes are kept in the bill.

Tariff proponents, Democrats and Republicans, accepted the defi and waited for a chance to vote, confident of a margin of one or two in their favor.

It was apparent as the theird day of debate wore on that no early vote was in prospect, and that each side was stubbornly entrenched for a finish fight. Each hopefully waited for the break it believed public opinion would force.

PLEA OF COLL FREES TWO

Attorney Edward Coll, associate council for Mayor Charles H. Kline in his malfeasance trial, whose voice broke as he was to make his closing argument, spoke 11 words in an alleged arson case he defended in Central Police Court today and two suspects were discharged.

After having refrained from questioning witnesses, he said:

"Is ask the discharge of these defendants for lack of evidence."

The defendants were Mrs. Mary De Luce Volpe, of 655 Eighth avenue, West Homestead, owner of a store in Hays which police said was destroyed by fire of incendiary origin, and Joe Sankovich, of Adderly, Pa., manager of the store.

Detectives had testified finding a container partly filled with turpentine, oil-soaked cloths and an extinguished candle in the store after the fire. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, in discharging the two, told police that they had failed to establish a case.

YOUTH FOUND CAGED IN HOME

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—Police reported they found Irvin Itter, a 21-year-old mental defective, confined in a cage in the basement of the home of his father, Henry Itter, 71.

Their discovery, made yesterday, resulted from an investigation requested by neighbors.

Members of the family explained Irvin had been placed in the cage because it was the easiest way of taking care of him, and that he had been confined there for two weeks.

Police Capt. Ira McDowell ordered the cage dismantled and the youth taken upstairs to live with the family.

PERSHING ASKS DRY REPEAL

NEW YORK, May 20.—Gen. John J. Pershing, in an article published in the American Magazine today on prohibition and lawlessness, favors the repeal of all prohibition laws.

Gen. Pershing says he does not question the sincerity of prohibitionists, but the time has come for some solution which takes more account of the traits of human nature.

Linking liquor traffic with the underworld, the general advocates the organization of local vigilance committees to war on gangsters and the adoption of the European system of identification police cards for every resident of the United States.

Train Kills Two At Ohio Crossing

LORAIN, O., May 20.—(INS.)—Elmore Richards, 73, retired salesman, and Miss Helen Justice, 36, school teacher, were killed yesterday when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a Nickel Plate passenger train at a local crossing.

16 Strike Leaders Executed by Soviet

WARSAW, May 20.—(INS.)—Sixteen strike leaders were shot to death at Kief by Soviet secret police, and 600 others have been arrested, according to information published today by Warsaw newspapers.

GEARY TO FACE GUN CHARGE

Alderman Thomas M. Geary and his deputy constable, James DeBasi, will be arraigned tonight before Justice of the Peace Theresa Haser, of Keown Station, on charges preferred by William Kessler, former deputy constable of Alderman Luke Sullivan's office.

Geary was charged with pointing firearms and DeBasi with assault and battery. Kessler said Geary pointed a revolver at him and DeBasi attacked him during the arrest of Constable Luke Hannan of Sullivan's office, Saturday night. Hannan, charged with assault and battery in an information filed by Benjamin Kopp, of the "Strip," was held for court Wednesday.

The arrests and counter arrests were attributed to the bitter Sullivan-Coyne political feud.

PA. DEMOCRATS AT ODDS AFTER MEETING

By MARK SHIELDS

Roosevelt forces, through the election of Warren Van Dyke, of Harrisburg, as state chairman yesterday, have gained control of Democratic party machinery in Pennsylvania, but have created an atmosphere of bitterness which was not healed by the subsequent re-election by acclamation of Sedgwick Kistler as national committeeman.

Van Dyke defeated John R. Collins, incumbent, by 65 to 46 in a short, sharp battle wherein the ill feeling between the backers of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith was plainly disclosed. Collins and Kistler consistently have insisted that Smith should be regarded as national leader, and that his advice should be accepted in making a presidential nomination.

KISTLER FORMIDABLE

Roosevelt leaders after the adjournment of the committee meeting yesterday sought to make it appear that they had made a concession in the election of Kistler. Other opinions were that they had not cared to attempt the defeat of the Lock Haven man, admittedly a stronger candidate than Collins.

It was considered significant that, after the election of Van Dyke, the Roosevelt ians first asked for a recess of 15 minutes. This recess, it was contended by the Kistler supporters, was for the purpose of canvassing the situation to determine if a successful fight could be made on him and to select an opponent. Original intentions to run Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, had been abandoned, but during the meeting some enthusiastic Roosevelt backers asserted that Perry Laucks, of York, would be the national committeeman.

The suggestion for a recess was howled down, and opposition to Kistler evaporated.

HOSTILITY REVEALED

Evidence of the underlying bitterness cropped up when Mrs. Kathryn Flohr, of Allentown, vice chairman under Collins, refused to accept the position in association with Van Dyke. Mrs. R. A. Henderson, of Altoona, a Roosevelt supporter, finally being chosen.

The Roosevelt influence was exhibited by the presence in Harrisburg of James A. Farley, Democratic state chairman of New York, and national Roosevelt leader. Farley had answered a hurry call, sent Wednesday night when factional lines were closely drawn. He occupied headquarters in a room adjacent to the meeting room in the Hotel Penn-Harris, and conferred with many committeemen during the morning and early afternoon, impressing upon them the importance to the Roosevelt movement of a Van Dyke victory.

FARLEY RESENTED

While this influence prevailed, it was evident that some delegates present resented the activity of the New Yorker as an intrusion in Pennsylvania affairs and an effort to turn party control on the question of a presidential candidate.

The Democrats faced the prohibition question squarely, unanimously adopting a resolution offered by County Chairman David L. Lawrence, of Allegheny County, for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The Allegheny County committeemen, led by Lawrence, voted 11 to 1 for Van Dyke against Collins, and by the same margin for Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, of Pittsburgh, against Mrs. Ann O'Dea Murphy, of Scranton, incumbent national committeewoman.

C. L. Ellenberger, of Monroe County, was elected treasurer.

Menuhin Thrills Toscanini In Daily Concerts at Sea

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—Yehudi Menuhin, who so far during his career has been permitted to play at only one concert a week, has recently been playing a concert a day, all the way from New York to France with an audience of one—Arturo Toscanini.

The distinguished conductor, nearing 70, and the 15-year-old violinist, fellow passengers on an ocean liner, began chatting about music on deck the first day out. A crowd swarmed about them. Hand-in-hand, Toscanini and Yehudi fled.

A steward provided a private music salon and posted a sign, "No Admittance," on the door. More stewards brought down a trunkful of scores from Yehudi's stateroom. Yehudi brought his Stradivarius and his accompanist.

Toscanini conducted—not with a baton, but by turning the pages. The daily concerts started at 11 a. m. They lasted well into the afternoon.

Yehudi begged:

"Criticize me—just like you criticize your orchestra."

Toscanini commanded:

"Play! Go ahead—just as much as you want, as much as you can!"

The night before they landed Yehudi played at the ship's benefit concert. He played the whole program. Just one condition he made:

"All classes must be admitted."

Toscanini was manager. The receipts were 40,000 francs.

As they parted the next day, Toscanini said to the boy:

"Yehudi, some time years pass and I do not hear so much good music as I heard, dear friend, during this voyage with you."

TRADE LEADERS ACT TO REDUCE VET EXPENSE

Executives Here Seek to Ban Payments to Any Soldier Not Disabled in Combat

Petitions are being circulated here by a group of Pittsburgh business executives, organized under the National Economy Committee, for the "elimination of all expenditures for veterans of the World War who did not in fact suffer disability in war service."

The petition specifically opposes payment of cash bonuses, but states:

"We make it plain that we are not now speaking of the so-called 'bonus' to which we are opposed, but we are speaking of a drastic reduction of the growing annual expenditures in the federal budget for veterans of the World War and the Spanish American War."

Speakers for the group explained their immediate objective the "compensation paid to persons who did not suffer actual disability in actual combat."

Henry James, overseer of the Carnegie Corporation, was the principal speaker. He represents the National Economy Committee with headquarters in New York. Archibald B. Roosevelt is secretary of the group.

Speaking to the informal gathering of business executives in the Duquesne Club, James outlined a plan for petitioning the President and Congress and the organization of a local committee.

Col. Samuel Harden Church, Edward B. Lee, Pittsburgh architect, and State Senator Frank L. Fay, of Greenville, also spoke.

IRISH OATH FATE UP TO SENATE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 20.—(AP.)—The question of whether the oath of allegiance to the British crown is to be abolished in the Irish Free State lay at the door of the Free State Senate today.

Famonn De Valera, tireless battler for a free Ireland, won his fight for the abolition of the oath in the Dail Eireann last night, carrying every vote including the final passage of the bill by a majority of 77 to 69. The Republican and Labor coalition held firm battering down the stubborn opposition of former President Cosgrave's conservative opposition.

The Senate will meet Wednesday. De Valera's plans already have been assailed there and the opposition has organized for the attack.

The Senate cannot exercise a final veto however. It may refuse to pass the measure for 18 months but if it does the Dail may again pass it and if the Senate fails a second time to approve the bill becomes a law after 60 days.

2,000 IN ARMY FACE LAYOFF

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—Reserve officers and citizens' military training camps have been saved from the economy drive in the House, but unless the Senate steps in, the Army will lose 2,000 officers this year.

The issue of national defense was used by Republicans with the aid of a substantial Democratic bloc to reject $5,791,000 of cuts made by the Democrat-controlled Appropriations Committee in the War Department's funds, but the bill was passed yesterday without funds needed to carry the present officer strength of 12,000.

Pay for the reserve officers two weeks annually, and expenses of R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. encampments were provided by amendments voted into the bill. The expenditure approved for the 1933 fiscal year totals $392,585,000, which is $18,000,000 under the budget figures. The bill was the last regular appropriation before the House, except for the second deficiency measure, which is still being written.

Carolina Pays Honor to First Revolters

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 20.—(AP.)—Charlotte's school bells failed to toll today, and the wheels of industry stopped turning, in memory of a band of pioneers which 157 years ago gathered on what is now Independence Square and defied the authority of King George III.

It is Mecklenburg County's Fourth of July. May 20 is the reason why Charlotte is the only town in America which does not celebrate July 4. The descendants of those pioneers ask "why celebrate the Philadelphia Declaration of Independence when we had one a year before?"

Notre Dame Athlete Hurt in Initiation

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 20.—(INS.)—Louis Vettel, of Ashtabula, O., a sophomore at Notre Dame University and a star track runner, was reported to be in St. Joseph's Hospital here today as the result of injuries suffered while being initiated into the Notre Dame Monogram Club, an organization of all the Notre Dame athletes who have earned their letters.

Secrecy veiled the case, university authorities refusing information.

MORE TROOPS OUT IN INDIA

BOMBAY, India, May 20.—(AP.)—Gov. Sykes today called out the Fifth Bombay Field Brigade, the Royal Artillery Force and Bombay Light Horse, which are made up of non-official Europeans to supplement His Majesty's regular forces in dealing with the Hindu-Moslem riots.

Although there was less rioting today and a measurable return of confidence, the Governor thought it necessary to call out the additional units as a precautionary measure.

Fifteen deaths were added to the total of more than 100 killed thus far in the rioting. Most of today's casualties were the result of stabbing affrays.

Ross Township Boy Injured by Auto

Richard Campbell, 8, 12 Laurel Garden street, Ross Township, was injured slightly this morning when struck by an automobile on the new Rochester road. The driver removed him to the Allegheny General Hospital.

CUBAN REVOLT FEAR DIMS FETE

HAVANA, May 20.—(AP.)—Threat of new revolution was in the air today as the Cuban republic began a quiet celebration of its thirtieth birthday.

Exactly three decades ago—May 20, 1902—the first American occupation, which followed the successful termination of the Island's long fight for freedom from Spain, ended, and Cuba embarked on her career as an independent nation.

Constitutional guarantees are still in suspension.

Martial law still prevails throughout the island.

Emir Feisal Hailed On Visit to Germany

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP.)—The Emir Feisal, vice king of Hedjas, arrived at Tempelhof airdrome today for a short visit to Germany. He was greeted by a representative of President Von Hindenburg, to whom he is conveying a personal letter from his father.

The president is not in Berlin now and the Emir will be received by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

Oil Train Wreck, Fire Kill Railway Man

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., May 20.—One trainman was killed and another seriously injured in the wreck and resultant fire on an oil train three miles east of here today.

The accident occurred as the train was passing over a level crossing. The first tank car behind the engine left the rails, throwing the engine and two other cars from the tracks. Fire broke out immediately.

Ex-Policeman Held On Girl's Charges

William Divens, 34, former city policeman, of 106 South Seventeenth street, was held for court today on charges brought by Dorothy Allison, 21, of 238 Zara street, Knoxville. Before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones, in Morals Court, the girl accused him of taking her to McKinley Park, where he beat her into unconsciousness. The girl's father testified Divens had been bothering his daughter for two years.

W. Va. Mine Union Official Kidnaped

LOGAN, W. Va., May 20.—(AP.)—B. W. Roberts, secretary-treasurer of the West Virginia Mine Workers District No. 1, was kidnaped in Logan yesterday.

Jail Terms Upheld For 3 N. Y. Bankers

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—The conviction of three officials of the closed Bank of United States was upheld today by the Appellate Division.

They are Bernard K. Marcus, president of the bank; Saul Singer, executive vice president, who were sentenced to three to six years in Sing Sing, and Herbert Singer, sentenced to an indeterminate term in the penitentiary.

EARLY START ON DAM SEEN

Early construction of a new dam at Montgomery Island in the Ohio River to replace moveable dams at Legionville, Freedom and Beaver is in sight as the War Department considers bids forwarded from the local United States Engineers office, according to word from Washington.

Contracts for the installation of the locks estimated to cost $3,000,000 are expected to be awarded within the next two or three weeks.

The cost of the entire project is estimated at $6,000,000. According to present schedules, initial construction will be authorized on a continuing contract basis. Sufficient funds are said to be available from the Rivers and Harbors fund to pay for such construction as may be completed before June 30. An appropriation of $1,555,000 has been asked for this project for the year 1933, $2,000,000 a year for 1934 and 1935 and $500,000 for 1936 when the project should be finished.

Oil City Opens Bids On New High School

OIL CITY, Pa., May 20.—Bids for the construction of the new annex to the senior high school were opened by the school board. There were more than a hundred bidders. The lowest bid was $216,838. Seventeen firms bid on the general contract.

Sentences Reduced In Mail Fraud Case

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS)—Sentences of five years each imposed upon Herman O. Hagner and his wife Julia of Scranton, Pa., have been reduced to three years and 18 months respectively. The reductions were ordered by District Supreme Court Justice Gordon, who had ordered the longer sentences after the couple was found guilty of using the mails to defraud.

The case attracted unusual attention because the Hagners failed to protest against the jurisdiction of the District Court, and demanding trial in their own jurisdiction where the offense was charged. A small daughter, who accompanied Mrs. Hagner to jail, is now in the care of relatives.

Soviet Names Fourth Town After Stalin

MOSCOW, May 20.—(INS.)—The name of the town of Kuznetsk, Siberia, today was changed to Stalinsk, thus becoming the fourth Soviety municipality to be named after Josef Stalin, "dictator" of Russia.

PASTELS POPULAR FOR SUMMER SHOES

Sketched in Paris

PARIS, May 20.—The shoes, from Marouf, are all of the tie-on variety. The sandal, at the top, is of white suede. It has deep cut-out portions at the back, and ties close about the ankle with a tasseled cord of the suede. The plaid model is of silk—a tiny pattern which has lines of black shading into two tones of gray against a white background. White kid, piped with black patent leather, forms a wide saddle band and is laced with white ribbon. The other oxford combines brown with white—brown kid which repeats the brown in the zigzag pattern of the brown-and-white silk. The tasseled lacing is also of brown kid.

SNUBS SCORNED BY MRS. BIDDLE

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(AP.)—Not that she gives a hang, but Mrs. Edward M. Biddle has been called a "hell-cat" and has been snubbed by many of her friends she says since she returned last month from Alaska. Just the same she's going again in a couple of years.

The society woman made a solitary trek up beyond the Arctic Circle, became snowbound for weeks and found a lot of material for a book.

It was for leaving her lawyer-husband to take the adventure jaunt, she declared, that some of her friends have turned their backs on her. She said liltingly:

"I have been terribly criticised for taking this trip. My husband was absolutely the only person who stood up for me. I want to go back again, maybe in two years or so.

"My husband won't go with me—he doesn't like that sort of thing—but I know he'll help me again to do it. The rest of my family objects terribly and many persons have openly snubbed me on the street since I returned."

VOICE CARRIED ON LIGHT BEAM

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 20.—(AP.)—A voice was carried over a light beam from the dirigible Los Angeles to the ground here last night and the Navy had demonstrated a "secret" method of communication from the air, expected to be highly important in war time.

Engineers said an enemy could not "listen in" on light beam communication as it could on wireless.

The transmission of voice over a beam of light was experimented with by officers of the airship and scientists of the General Electric Company. A two-foot mirror on the roof of a laboratory picked up the beam and a photo-electric cell transformed the light-borne frequencies into sound and voice, which were broadcast over a national radio chain, including WCAE in Pittsburgh.

Citizens of Allison Park, Wildwood, Allison Park Heights and Sample voting districts met in the Wildwood School last night to organize the Hampton Township Civic Association. C. A. Stump was elected president, E. A. Rivers, vice president; John Lamond, treasurer, and James Gilkey, secretary.

The body seeks to improve transportation facilities, prevent speeding and collect taxes.

Man Crossing Street Run Down by Auto

Edwin F. Wills, 45, of 1403 Sarah street, was in South Side Hospital today, suffering from a skull injury incurred when he was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by John Roedler, 26, of 2809 Berg street. Wills was struck while crossing Carson street at Seventeenth street.

NEEDY MAY GAIN BY TECH MENU

The menus for the 20-cent daily diet worked out at Carnegie Institute of Technology will probably be the means of adding greater variety to the baskets of food being distributed for direct relief to the needy families of Allegheny County.

S. E. Claney, director of relief of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, said:

"The cost of the Tech menus is slightly more than our present ration. We intend to study it. It may help us add variety to the meals."

FARM PROJECT FOR JOBLESS RUSHED

Father Cox Speeds Plans For Gardens, Homes on Kittanning Pike Site

Father Cox is rushing plans for launching the actual work of planting and gardening at his Kittanning Pike farming community to be known as "Coxtown." Architects are showing him completed plans today for the arrangement of the two-room bungalows and the auxiliary buildings to be erected on his 32-acre tract. Ground, however, will be broken for the gardens before construction starts on the housing.

Father Cox

All who have inspected the site of "Coxtown" are delighted with it. From a scenic viewpoint it is unusually attractive, with an elevation of 1,200 feet overlooking beautiful valleys and wooded hills. Father Cox will have no ceremony for the opening. It is his instruction to "get in and build and dig and plant and grow" without any unnecessary delay. Lumber and brick for the little homes are already being hauled to the site and the moment the plans are completed, the skilled or semi-skilled labor among the unemployed now living in "Shantytown" will be thrown into action. In another week or two "Coxtown" will be a reality and an opportunity will be given to 100 or more families to provide for themselves.

FUNDS NEEDED

For several weeks "Coxtown" will be all expense and no income. In the meantime Father Cox is urgently in need of funds to carry on this and his many other projects for the alleviation of distress among the unemployed. In fact he needs funds today more than ever.

In the meantime the Home Delivery Drive is showing satisfactory results, the funds from this activity going a long way to feed the lengthy breadline that congregates every day at Old St. Patricks.

CHANCE TO HELP

If you want to help the "father of the jobless at a time when he most needs help, at a time when the problem of feeding thousands of hungry men, women and children is more serious than ever clip the order blank on this page and send it in today. You'll not only get a GOOD newspaper, but you'll have the personal satisfaction of giving your personal aid to a worthy cause. Send the subscription blank to Father Cox if you wish.

If you are living in a city or town where there is no home delivery of the Sun-Telegraph, write to the subscription department, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., for mail subscription rates and state in your letter you are interested in the Father Cox fund.

ARCTIC RESCUE PERILS FLIERS

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—New lines were written today in the drama of the ill-fated University of Chicago expedition to trap the mysterious cosmic ray on Mt. McKinley.

An American Airways pilot seeking to rescue a scientist marooned on ice was missing somewhere in the icy vastness and another who set out to find him was down 150 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, the base for rescue operations.

S. E. Robbins took off from Fairbanks yesterday in the hope of lifting Percy T. Olton, Jr., New York engineer, off the glacier perch where E. P. Beckwith was rescued by plane last Tuesday. He was long overdue last night.

Another pilot famous for his arctic exploits, Joe Crosson, set out from Fairbanks to find Robbins. Offices of the American Airways here were informed by radiogram last night he was forced to land on a glacier.

Robbins, Crosson and Pilot Jerry Jones had planned to bring Olton to safety yesterday and to set out today in search for Nicholas Spadevecckia, a missing member of the expedition, in which two others, Allen Carpe and Theodore Koven, met death by plunging over a precipice less than two weeks ago.

SUES FOR LOSS IN BARGE CRASH

The Carnegie Steel Company filed an admiralty suit in Federal Court against the Iron City Sand and Gravel Company, seeking to recover $3,500 for alleged damages and expenses incurred when one of its steel barges collided with a submerged steel sand barge of the defendant concern in the Monongahela River, near Wallory Ripple, October 5, 1929.

The statement of claim avers that the defendant company failed to mark the location of its sunken barge with a buoy or beacon, or notify government river authorities where the barge sank on July 1, 1929. At the time of the alleged collision the barge of the plaintiff company was part of a tow being taken down river by the steamboat City of Pittsburgh.

The amount of damage sought is to cover cost of repairs and disuse of the barge while it was in dry dock, according to the statement of claim.

2 NEW BISHOPS OF M. E.'S AWAIT ASSIGNMENT

Cushman and Magee to Be Consecrated Sunday; Win on Fifth Voting Day

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 20.—(AP.)—With the vacancies in the Episcopacy filled by the election of two new bishops, the Methodist Episcopal General Conference today returned to its speculations on the transfer and reassignment of bishops.

Most of the discussion centered on where Bishops-elect J. Ralph Magee, Seattle, Wash., and Ralph S. Cushman, Rochester, N. Y., who were chosen by the conference yesterday after five days of balloting, would be assigned to serve their first quadrennium.

There was no indication as to what Episcopal areas the two men would receive.

Bishop-elect Cushman was chosen last night on the nineteenth ballot. Bishop-elect Magee was elevated to the episcopacy on the seventeenth vote earlier in the day.

30 YEARS SERVICE EACH

The two men have served 30 years each in the ministry of Methodism, the Rev. Mr. Magee rising to prominence through his pastoral work, and the Rev. Mr. Cushman gaining his reputation through work in "Christian stewardship," which is connected with church finance. Prior to election, the Rev. Mr. Magee was the district superintendent of the Seattle, Wash., area and the Rev. Mr. Cushman was pastor of the Asbury church in Rochester.

The formal consecration of the two bishops will take place Sunday afternoon.

The elections came after early indications during the day that the same indecisive balking and filling of votes which had marked the contest would continue.

HOOVER MESSAGE READ

Following upon the Rev. Cushman's election, a message was read from President Hoover thanking the delegates for their prayers and spiritual support.

Bishop-Elect Magee is the son of a Methodist minister and the father of another. He has two brothers, the Rev. John B. Magee, of Bellevue, Pa., and Carl C. Magee, Oklahoma City, newspaper editor, credited with having exposed the Teapot Dome oil deals during the Harding administration.

2 Held for Court In Fake Coin Case

Dante Molli and Angelo Gasperi, of Sarver R. D. No. 1, Butler County, alleged to have passed counterfeit $1 and 50-cent coins on farmers in purchasing eggs and other products, were held for court by the United States Commissioner. In default of $1,500 bond each, they were committed to jail. They were arrested by state police and turned over to operatives of the United States Secret Service.

ERIE SCHOOLS ASK RATE CUT

ERIE, Pa., May 20.—(AP.)—Reduction on rates charged by the various utilities on service furnished the Erie school district will be demanded by the Board of Education.

R. Stanley Scobell, secretary of the board, was instructed at a meeting last night to communicate with the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg for a decrease in rates on heat, light, power and telephones. He was also authorized to request cooperation in the movement from other school districts throughout Pennsylvania.

SOLDIERS QUIT OHIO MINES

COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—(AP.)—The shadow of military force passed today from the strike-ridden coal fields of Eastern Ohio.

Orders for the withdrawal of all National Guard troops with the exception of a small patrol and one armored car were issued late yesterday by Gov. George White. A few weeks ago there were several hundred guardsmen in the field to quell disorders, but the number has been gradually reduced.

The Governor's plans for settlement of the strike, however, have not met with approval either of the operators or the miners.

Prohibition Repeal Debate, Frazier Hunt From Tokio Features on WCAE

"Resolved: That the Eighteenth Amendment be Repealed."

That is the question which brings two Pittsburgh leaders in the anti-dry and prohibition forces together in debate on WCAE tonight at 10 o'clock before an unseen audience of thousands in the tri-state area.

Mrs. William M. Hall, prominently identified in civic and social circles in the city, presents the affirmative, or anti-dry, side of the question, and the Rev. Dr. J. E. Wagner, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church presents the negative or dry side.

Seven minutes have been allotted each speaker for argument over WCAE tomorrow night at 8:15.

Frazier Hunt, famous war correspondent and radio news broadcaster, is heard on WCAE tonight at 6:45 when he speaks for 15 minutes from Tokio, describing up-to-the-minute conditions in troubled Japan. Mr. Hunt, now touring the Orient as observer and correspondent for International News Service and Universal Service, was in Tokio at the time of the assassination of Japan's premier. He immediately interviewed the principals in the cabinet upheaval which followed, and since has been keeping in close touch with developments.

Mr. Hunt's eye-witness description comes from station JOAK in Tokio and is brought by short wave to San Francisco, whence it is carried over the National Broadcasting System network.

Program Pointers

Percy Grainger, pianist-composer, and the Westchester County Choral Club of 1,500 mixed voices, conducted by Albert Stoessel, are featured in a gala program over an NBC network including WCAE tonight at 10:15. Grainger interprets his own composition, "Spoon River," as a piano solo, and the voices blend in John Alden Carpenter's "Song of Faith," written for the Washington bicentennial celebration and Grainger's "Tribute to Foster."

Mr. Grainger

The fate of a $100 bill that Abbey Quimby included among the drugstore receipts to be deposited in the bank is the problem facing the prominent citizens of Friendship Town on KDKA tonight at 9.

Adolphus Greeley's invasion in 1881 of the far northland, successful in that it reached farther north than any other previous expedition but disastrous for the members of the exploring party, is re-enacted during "Today and Yesterday" presentation on WJAS at 8:30.

Special programs, including novelties and skits, are presented by the Schafer-Englert Orchestra in its concluding broadcasts over WWSW tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30.

Arrangements of two popular numbers, "Forgotten" and "Londonderry Air," for strings are heard when Abrasha Borodkin and three 'cellists of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra perform as a great quartet with Nat Shilkret's orchestra and vocal ensemble on the Kodak week-end Hour tonight at 9 on WJAS.

Roy Peterson, baritone, of McKeesport, presents a program of Swedish songs with narrative preludes on KDKA at 10:45.

"Tell Me Why You Smile, Mona Lisa," the new German song hit, is featured by Leo Reisman on WCAE at 9:30.

Fan Fare

Don Ameche is the young radio actor who portrays that genial globe-trotter and adventure seeker, Beau Bachelor, on WJAS tonight at 10 . . . Two series of programs made their inaugural appearances on WJAS this morning . . . The programs, one at 10:30 featuring Dick and Ray, well-known harmony duo frequently heard from Pittsburgh studios, and the other at 11 featuring Irving Kaufman as the "Singing Grocer," will be heard once a week . . . Graham Harris has been trailed by a flock of airplane salesmen ever since it was announced that he travels 560 miles every week-end to fish . . . "In My Visionette," the first television theme song ever written, is the work of Walter E. Sickles, of the WWSW staff. The composer sang the song for eight months over WSXAO and WIBO, and introduced the number two years ago. He sings it again tonight at Rosenbaum's Sanabria Television Show . . . Mrs. Helene Miller Schulze, former Pittsburgh stage star whose great dream of being the mother of twin girls was fulfilled recently, was a protege of Jim Hughes, WJAS program director, and started a successful career at that station . . . Favorite beverages of famous people between cues: Lily Pons, a glass of tea, lemon juice and pineapple juice mixed by her secretary; John McCormack, hot coffee in a thermos bottle; Maria Jeritza, cold pineapple juice; Rosa Ponselle, iced coffee; George Cehanovsky, weakened orange juice, and Beniamino Gigli, plain ice water. . . . The Boswell sisters are riding around in a lovely new limousine . . . Their chauffeur is a former taxicab driver whose offer of personal taxi service for the girls a year ago was accepted . . . Bruce Adams, who plays Judge Whipple in the "Thompkins' Corners" sketches, also is heard occasionally as the mayor of the neighboring town, Sordis. He sticks a couple of paper clips in his mouth, when mayor, to get that mumbly effect. . . . Zoel Parenteau inaugurates a series of request programs on today's Strollers Matinee broadcast from KDKA . . . When the motor they were using for sound effects in a program went dead recently just as an automobile was to rush past the microphone, Ralph Dumke, one of the Sisters of the Skillet, was equal to the occasion. He pulled out his pocket comb, ruffled the edges of the sheet music on the piano and said "whoooo!" into the "mike," and nobody knew the difference.

COUNTY LOSES 'GYRO GUEST

County airport employes have learned to their chagrin when opportunity knocks at the closest door of a hangar and can't get in it flies to Bettis Airport. Here's the lowdown.

Pilot Guy Faulkner demonstrating an autogyro argued long and demonstrated longer to his Pittsburgh prospect. When it was all over, he presented himself at the hangar doors, but even the loud roar of an airplane motor could not help him gain admittance. The doors, he said, were locked, so tired Pilot Faulkner flew to Bettis.

County Airport Director Halsey R. Bailey, asked about the incident, denied the doors were locked. Nevertheless, Faulkner's ship spent the night at a Bettis hangar.

Delivers Rum on Bicycle, Arrested

WASHINGTON May 20.—(AP)—The miles per hour ratio between a bicycle and a police automobile was unfavorable to George Stewart.

He was in jail yesterday because police said he employed foot and pedal power to attempt the delivery of six half-gallon jars of whisky while they employed mechanical horsepower to catch him. The jars were carried in a wire basket slung from the handlebars.

Parish Principals To Meet Tomorrow

ADVERTISERS OPTIMISTIC

CINCINNATI May 20.—(AP)—Leading advertisers are activated now by optimism, Lee H. Bristol of New York, president of the Association of National Advertisers, said at the opening of the annual meeting of the organization here today.

Advertising is now given more attention than ever before, he said adding:

"The Association of National Advertisers has some 350 members who spend about $300,000,000 annually in advertising and they are being actuated by an undercurrent of substantial optimism."

The association acts as a clearing house for advertising ideas and data.

New Staff Elected For Tartan at Tech

Rally Ends Allied Drys' Crusade Here; Many Enrolled

ARREST REVEALS TIRE THEFTS SAID TO LINK 100

PROHIBITION'S ADHERENTS ORGANIZED

Dr. Poling Denies Rackets Are Due to Law; Adult And Youth Units Formed

Pittsburgh adherents of prohibition today stood organized under the Allied Forces for Prohibition as national leaders continued their coast-to-coast campaign toward the East, preparing to sound warning at the national political conventions next month of the organized voters in 587 cities.

The two-day campaign here closed last night at Memorial Hall where Dr. Daniel A. Poling and Oliver W. Stewart outlined the Allied Forces' stand. Youth units, as well as men and women, were pledged during the drive to support prohibition.

Campaign leaders announced hundreds had been enrolled here in the movement as Allied Citizens, the adult organization, and as the Allied Youth. Leaders said more that 1,000,000 throughout the country had enrolled as Allied Citizens.

GOOD WILL SOUGHT

Denying that speakeasies and racketeering were outgrowths of prohibition, Dr. Poling last night declared "we do not believe all of God's children are on our side." He said:

"In the advocacy of our cause we shall seek to advance good will. We know that prohibition did not create the speakeasy. Prohibition uncovered the speakeasy. Those who point to the Canadian system as our way out will do well to read the speakeasy report of the Canadian plan.

"We do not believe legalized beer will bring back prosperity. Today more men and women are employed in the soft drink departments of drug stores, in fruit juice stands and in delicatessens than were ever employed in the whole liquor triffic. These workers and these industries would be menaced at once by the return of any form of the old license system.

"Prohibition is not responsible for the racket. The solution of the problem in lawlessness lies not in modification, lies not in nullification, but in observance and enforcement. In the field of enforcement, conditions are steadily better. But prohibition at its worst is immeasurably better than license ever was at its best."

CLAIMS SUPPORT

Declaring the nation's people were with them in the fight, Stewart said:

"Under the standard of loyalty to the Constitution, following this leader (Dr. Poling), backed by the people from coast to coast, the Allied Forces will carry the campaign by next June into 587 strategic centers and then face the great presidential conventions with a warning that a dry army is in the field, equipped and at attention, ready to deal with those leaders or parties who give listening ears to the proposition that the liquor traffic be restored by the process of nullification or law violation."

1,000 WOMEN ATTEND

More than 1,000 attended the women's luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Schenley, said by Dr. Poling to be the largest women's meeting the allied forces have held since the campaign began. It was a representative group of society, club and church women. Many who had not made reservations for the luncheon were turned away, but returned for the meeting which followed.

Mrs. Henry Clay McEldowney presided and among those who sat at the speakers' table with her were Mrs. James G. Chalfant, Mrs. John E. Nelson, Mrs. Charles H. Spencer, Mrs. Richard B. Perry, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Gibson, Mrs. Norman W. Storer, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, Mrs. H. J. Fox, Mrs. Joseph H. Grandey, Mrs. Janet Snyder, Mrs. Harriet Boobyer, Mrs. William Schuette, Oliver Stewart

VARIETY CLUB MAKES PLEA FOR JOB AID

Amusement Leaders Call on Congressmen for Passage Of Federal Prosperity Loan

The imperative demand for speedy action to relieve unemployment by the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan for needed public works was made plain to Pennsylvania Senators and Congressmen today by the Variety Club.

Memoralizing Congress to pass the loan, the club, composed of prominent leaders in the amusement industry of Western Pennsylvania, and those businesses which have to do with the theater, indorsed the loan through James G. Balmer, president.

ACCOUNTANTS ACT

Likewise, the loan was discussed by the Pittsburgh chapter, Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants, who, at a meeting to elect their officers, sent the plan to a committee for further discussion. It will be referred to state headquarters for action.

Copies of the Variety Club memorial were sent U. S. Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis, and Congressmen P. J. Sullivan, Clyde Kelly and Harry Estep.

Cognizant of the fact that over 1,000,000 wage earners in Pennsylvania, and over 190,000 in Allegheny County are idle, the memorial of the club stated:

"The Variety Club heartily indorses the proposal for the issuance by the United States government of bonds in the amount of $5,000,000,000 to be applied to public work for the direct relief of employment.

PLEA TO CONGRESSMEN

"In a meeting assembled, its members have passed a resolution calling upon you as representative in the United States Congress to use your influence and vote for the passage of such legislation that may be necessary to accomplish this laudable purpose.

"It is imperative that speedy action be taken in this matter if the United States of America is to fulfill its duty to its citizens and the fine traditions which have made it a nation envied by the world and the haven for the distressed and oppressed people of other lands.

"We strongly and earnestly urge that no time be lost in this splendid movement to bring back prosperity."

Senators Were Out of Practice For Beer Vote

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Congress should learn that you can talk better with beer than about it.

With beer taxed at 40 cents a gallon the Senators could have franked their kettles with their laundry.

But we will forgive the boys. It was their first vote on beer in 12 years and they may be out of practice.

But the next time the bill comes up we hope the boys aye, yea and yes for the good old brew that cheers the workingman and makes the stone mason wave his trowel like Stokowski leading the Philharmonic Orchestra.

The most rabid prohibitionist is the man who won't share his liquor with the public.

Like the busy little beaver he has stopped the flow of the stream while he continues to swim happily in the huge reservoir he has stored up.

We'll win the next legalization contest if we make it a standing vote and only count the Senators who fall down.

CHARGE POLICE BOUGHT LOOT FROM RING

Employe-Suspect Expected To Involve Others in $35,000 Downtown Plot

City detectives early today arrested Frank Zygello, 28, of Downing street, a delivery clerk for the Englert Tire and Rubber Company, in connection with a $35,000 theft of automobile tires from the company's storeroom, 609 Bigelow boulevard.

Detective Inspector Frank Boyd said Zygello admitted his part in the thefts this morning and promised to give a statement later in the day, implicating several others, including at least one more store employe.

More than 100 persons are involved in the actual thefts and as the receivers of stolen goods, police said, adding that many of the tires were sold to police officers and justices of the peace, some of whom purchased them without knowing they had been stolen.

MORE ARRESTS LOOM

Detectives James Swearingen and George Brubach, who worked with insurance adjusters for three months before evidence could be gathered warranting an arrest, said several others, including a woman, also are to be arrested.

In gathering evidence Swearingen and Brubach posed as vacuum cleaner salesmen and paid several visits to the apartment of a North Side woman with whom Zygello was known to be friendly, hoping to find him or other suspects there. When they did not, they were compelled to go through with their role of salesmen-demonstrators, cleaning four rugs in the apartment as part of their ruse.

TRAILED FROM FARM

Zygello was arrested on a suspicious person charge shortly after midnight, when Swearingen and Brubaugh trailed him from a farm in Allison Park where, they said, he had been hiding for two weeks, to his Downing street home.

Two weeks ago, the detectives said, Zygello realized he was under surveillance and asked a leave of absence from work, claiming to be ill, and sending his younger brother to work in his place.

Swearingen said the theft ring had a well-arranged plan for getting the tires out of the store and disposing of them with minimum danger of apprehension.

Inspector Boyd said that Zygello estimated about 9,000 tires had been stolen in the past four months, with the value of the loot, at wholesale prices, running close to $35,000. The thefts were not discovered until the company took an inventory of its stock, some time after the looting of the store had started, Swearingen said.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 20.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See a lot of pictures of Mrs. Vincent Astor and society women of New York taking up nickels on the street to aid anti-prohibition. Such antics as that is sure to win the small town and the farm women over. Yes, sir, right over to the opposite side. I'll bet there is more fool things done for publicity sake that defeat their own purpose than ever aided it. There is but one reason that prohibition won't be repealed. And it's not numbers, either. It's because the wrong people want it repealed.

Yours,

WILL.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va., May 20.—(AP)—John Alberti, 30, Pittsburgh, was returned here yesterday for arraignment under an indictment charging a part in the "torch" murder of Vito Ascoli.

Alberti fought extradition following his arrest in Pittsburgh. He denied the charges.

The body of Ascoli, a resident of Pittsburgh, was found at Pine Grove, near here, in November, 1930. He had been shot to death, his body wrapped in oil-soaked blankets and set afire.

Louis Zambrano, of Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the killing. He is serving a five-year term in the Moundsville prison.

Judge Harry Rowand ordered Alberti's return to West Virginia yesterday, after a habeas corpus hearing. Attorney Charles J. Margiotti had procured a writ, contending it was a mistaken identification, but at the hearing failed to present expected alibi witnesses.

The Poor Board visiting committee, appointed by Quarter Sessions Court, has gone to that court with a mandamus proceeding against the County Commissioners seeking to collect pay for the investigations at the county home at Woodville.

The payment was authorized by Quarter Sessions Court November 9, but County Commissioners had been advised by Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher it would be illegal to pay the money unless set up as a special emergency item in the county budget, a step which was not taken.

FIRE DAMAGES 'ARMY' SHOP

Damage estimated at $5,000 resulted from a fire last night in the two-story brick furniture repair and waste paper shop of the Salvation Army Social Service Center, Forty-seventh and Plummer streets.

The blaze was brought under control by seven fire companies, summoned by two alarms. Between 30 and 35 men are employed in the building, once used as a car barn by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

and Dr. Poling, who was the speaker, and who came in the close of the men's meeting. He said:

"Prohibition has not corrupted the youth of America for the youth of America is not corrupt. Young men and women of today are as intrinsically fine and worthy as young people have ever been in all the life of the country. They make mistakes, just as mistakes were made in past generations. They do not create the philisophy they study; they are not their own preachers nor their own teachers and they should not be indicted.

"Instead they should receive the encouragement of a good example. We do not indict bankers when one banker defaults and it is unfair and untrue to indict young America for a few hip flasks. If youth is indicted it is an indictment of the American home, the American church, the American school and of American social civilization."

Because youth has seen no other conditions than those existing under prohibition, it has no justification for reaching any other conclusion than that prohibition is responsible for many evils of the day, Dr. Poling declared, as he went on to tell of 500,000 young people enlisting since September in the campaign for prohibition enforcement. He also outlined the aims of the campaign and told some of its results.

Prohibition may not prohibit, but neither he said did regulation regulate in the days of the saloon. It is what the liquor traffic was that wrote the Eighteenth Amendment into the Constitution, he declared.

Still Fighting

GRACE PRIEHS

Miss Preihs, the Pittsburgh woman, who, to protect her $10,000 verdict in a breach of promise suit against Arthur H. Geiger, Alliance, O., has invoked Pittsburgh police records to discredit a new witness, Thomas O'Brien, of Pittsburgh, in Cleveland U. S. Court action asking a new trial.

Radiological Body Elects Pittsburgher

Dr. William J. Fisher, on the staff of St. John's Hospital, was elected first vice president of the Pennsylvania Radiological Society, at a convention of the organization in Phillipsburg, yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

GIRL TO FIGHT FOR BALM CASH

CLEVELAND, May 20.—(AP)—Police records have been invoked by Miss Grace Priehs, of Pittsburgh, to protect the $10,000 verdict she won recently in a breach of promise suit against Arthur H. Geiger, of Alliance, O.

In an answer filed in Federal Court yesterday, Miss Priehs attacked the record of Thomas O'Brien, of Pittsburgh, who in a motion for a new trial brought by Geiger, told of a "long and intimate friendship" with the girl.

In his affidavit, O'Brien said that in memory of a trip to Philadelphia in 1927, he had his right shoulder tattooed with the words "A June Rose Brings Memories," and underneath the word "Grace."

Miss Priehs' answer asserted the tattooing did not appear on O'Brien when he was examined by Pittsburgh police on November 26, 1929. She further said O'Brien served 17 months in the Mansfield Reformatory, starting January 7, 1924, for burglary, and from October 18, 1925, to April 30, 1927, was in the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh on a robbery charge.

COSTS PLACED ON 'SQUIRE

A Criminal Court jury, acting on suggestion of Visiting Judge R. L. Lewis, of Potter County, yesterday, placed the costs in a bad check case, which resulted in acquittals, on the justice of the peace before whom the information was made, terming him the real prosecutor instead of the information signer.

Herbert Lewis, 22, of Avonmore, Westmoreland County, was the defendant. Joseph Levitt, 911 Fifth avenue, testified Lewis had given him checks for $22 and $16 which the bank did not honor. Levitt said a constable asked if he could give him some work and Levitt mentioned the checks. Later, he testified, he was summoned to the Register of Wills office to see Justice of the Peace R. E. Lloyd, employed there as a clerk. He said Lloyd caused him to sign two informations, one for each check.

Judge Lewis directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty on the $22 check, given on a past due account, and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on the other check.

Miss Bush declared the bill provides for legalizing the manufacture and sale of 4 per cent beer and 14 per cent wine. The liquor industry under the bill would be controlled by the federal government.

FAKE BANKRUPT SALES BANNED BY CLARK

City Sleuths Open Survey; Director Plans to Jail or Drive Away Offenders

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, at the instance of the Better Business Bureau today through a special detail of city detectives opened a clean-up drive against alleged fake bankrupt sales.

Making it clear that there was no intention of interfering with legitimate bankrupt sales authorized by court, Clark declared he would drive "out of town or into jail" all those conducting such sales under false pretense. He said:

"I believe that fully 80 per cent of the so-called bankrupt sales are merely a ruse to mulct the public under pretense of cut-rate prices.

"I have instructed the detectives to obtain complete information of all bankrupt sales. Unless those conducting such sales can show they are operating in a bona fide manner, I shall request the city solicitor to prosecute them under the state act of 1913, which prohibits false advertising.

"Many complaints have reached me from our legitimate merchants and I intend to put a stop to the practice. Many of these fakers use big banners announcing their sales. This is permissible under the act only when the sale is authorized through bankrupt proceedings."

BOY RUNAWAYS BANISHED BY M'CLOSKEY

Pittsburgh Youths Protest Ousting From Johnstown; Mayor Defends Action

Three youthful runaways were back home today after they had experienced the "exile" rule enforced against vagabonds by Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown. The three, Morris Nahmod, 14, of 1811 Center avenue; Sidney Golfon, 13, of 25 Overhill street, and Joseph Spear, 15, of 1931 Webster avenue, have complained to the Jewish Big Brother Club of the treatment received at Johnstown.

"We wanted to get to New York, and when we reached Johnstown we went to the police station to sleep. We were kept there two days, and Chief C. E. Briney wired the Missing Persons Bureau in Pittsburgh about us."

The bureau communicated with Alfred Goldenberg and Cecil Schwartz, of the Big Brother Club, who wired Briney to hold the boys.

Before the two men got to Johnstown, Mayor McCloskey, the boys declared, took them and nine vagabonds from the station and drove them to the outskirts of the city, telling them they were not wanted. Spear is crippled and his comrades gave him all their money for train fare to Pittsburgh. Golfon and Nahmod hitchhiked back.

In explanation, Mayor McCloskey said he found the three boys in dirty cells in the public safety building. He declared they told him they had run away and begged him to set them free immediately.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Taunt

We are no longer children—we must come
To some sharp, sane decision soon, my dear;
For, when the blood runs cool and senses numb,
We will regret each trifling, wasted year.

There's been enough of infantile dispute,
Enough of give and take along the way,
I will not stand and watch the moments loot
The bloom from youth that has too short a sway.

Measure my faults and add my virtues up—
Test me and weigh me on the scales of chance;
Either discard or drink the flowing cup,
Where is there room for weakness in romance?

Must she be told you cannot take a dare?)

—Don Wahn.

Depression, Again?

Con Conrad tells about the two Wall St. bankers who emerged from The Crash with nothing but scant $90-a-month incomes. Their first thought was suicide, but they changed their minds when they learned of the Isle of Majorca off the coast of Spain, where for $90 a month a man could live in a luxurious house, employ 10 servants and drink the rarest wines.

So off went the duo Majorca-bound. After six months of soft living they began to realize what an even better place it would be if they could induce some of their market-stricken pals to eschew the States and come to laze with them in the Spanish Eden. But the plan was futile. When they arrived back in New York they couldn't find one with a $90-a-month income.

Not Even a Leaf!

First-nighters were commenting on "There You are," the Hyman Adler musical in the George M. Cohan lobby during intermission Monday night.

"The music isn't bad," ventured an afternoon reviewer, "but the book is very weak."

Yeah?

Wally Sullivan, the Hooeywood wag, says he knows a fellow who is so tight he wouldn't give a nickel to see the Akron wrapped in cellophane.

5th Avenue Light!

This well-mannered highway,
Respected and staid,
This mixture of matron
And proper old maid,
Has kicked over traces,
Grown giddy and mellow,
Hung up her white chiffon
And stepped out in yellow.

Sue Me!

The protesters have the floor. Last week this shaft reported the story about Al Boasberg's grandmother. The screamie wit, en route to N. Y., had wired her to meet him when the Twentieth Century stopped in Syracuse, and when she saw him, she ran to his arms and cried:

"I'm so happy to see you, Al. I even missed a funeral this morning, so I could come to the train."

On the face of it a harmless little yarn! But the mail and telegraph systems have been taxed with the burden of pointing out to me 1,001 errors of my typewriting ways. From H. T. Howard, of Chicago, comes the electric reprimand:

"Dope! Stop! See what time the eastbound 20th Century passes Syracuse and then explain why these up-Staters have their funerals during the wee small hours."

Justice Samuel J. Harris of the N. Y. Supreme Court Chambers in Buffalo takes us to task with a note, in effect:

"The story about Al Boasberg furnished a laugh to those of us who are acquainted with his family. The reason for the laugh is that not only has Al no grandmother in Syracuse, but his two grandmothers, both of whom lived in Buffalo, have been gone from this life for many years."

Perhaps I should never have brought the whole matter up.

Particular

Abe Lyman tells the pathetic tale about the dramatic critic whose body was held in a vault for over a year until they could find him a grave on the aisle.

Doubling Up

Now that the Palace, last frontier of vaudeville, has abandoned its traditional standards and gone in for a grind policy, Cliff remarks that the actors who used to stand in front of its lobby, discussing their former successes, can now lay off four-a-day instead of the previous two.

Add Menaces:

Broadway columnists are now complaining about a new kind of kibitzer who helps to make life miserable. He's the fellow that watches over your shoulder as you make notes.

'Snozzel' Durante in 'Speak Easily'

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announces that the supporting cast for Buster Keaton's new starring film, "Speak Easily," will include Jimmy Durante, Ruth Selwyn, Lawrence Grant, Sidney Toler, Henry Armetta and Hedda Hopper.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

With the presentation of "The Mikado" tonight in the Nixon the Civic Light Opera Company will begin the second bill of its engagement in the Sixth avenue theater. This charming Gilbert and Sullivan work also will be presented at the Saturday matinee and the booking will be completed tomorrow night when "Pirates of Penzance" will be sung. In the remaining programs there will be seen several players who have not appeared in "Trial by Jury" and "Pinafore." Among them will be Hizi Koyke, Japanese prima donna, as Yum Yum, and Vera Ross, as Katisha, in "The Mikado." The latter played the same character here a few seasons ago, and left the impression that there is no funnier Katisha, which was the role sung here recently by Mme. Schumann-Heink.

* * *

Like many other "partners," Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey have had a scrap. Wheeler has left Hollywood to make a vaudeville tour with Dorothy Lee, while Woolsey is said to have sought Harry Langdon to appear with him in a series of comedies. Members of teams do get into one another's hair after long association. Even the most noted and longest-lived of them, McIntyre and Heath, were not immune. For 15 years they played together and did not speak to one another off-stage. Then they made up and were friendly at last accounts.

Heh, heh, heh, the song-selling boys of the Civic Light Opera Company in the Nixon call "All the latest selections of Gilbert and Sullivan."

Ruth Chatterton is counting on a vacation in Europe as soon as her current pictures is completed. . . . Al Jolson's picture "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," will have Harry Langdon in the cast . . . Work is expected to begin Monday on the Marlene Dietrich film, "Blonde Venus," in which the leading man will be Herbert Marshall, husband of Edna Best . . . Helen Hayes has been signed to play the lead in "Farewell to Arms" for the screen, the boy opposite to be Frederich March . . . Warren William will be "loaned" by Warner Brothers to M-G-M to play the male lead in "Skyscraper Souls" . . . While Lillian Bond was completing "The Dark House" for the screen she also worked on the Los Angeles stage in "Springtime for Henry" . . . Chicago critics no like George M. Cohan's new play, "Confidential Service," in which he is a private detective, but the folks like George personally . . . Herbert Rawlinson and Agnes Ayres, stars of silent films, are a team in vaudeville.

Y. M. & W. H. A. to Play 'Good Hope'

"The Good Hope" will be presented Sunday and Monday evenings in the Y. M. and W. H. A. The cast includes Bebe Falvo in the leading role, Adelaide Lasner, Milton Goldbloom, Mel Evans, Irwin Shapiro, John Johns, Eda Tolde, Edward MacRoberts, Milton Brauman, Betty Graham, Eugene Plynge, Martha J. Arnold, Sanford Bickart, Ruth M. Haverty, Ralph H. Wilson, Beatrice Lasday, M. M. Gropper and Herbert W. Osgood. "The Good Hope" is the fourth and last major production of the season, during which the Co-Operative Players have presented "Processional," "Mud and Treacle" and "The Last Mile."

Demands for Relief In County Increase

Leaders in welfare work report little increase in direct relief demands in the city recently, but a considerable increase in the county where the $500,000 work program authorized by County Commissioners is nearing completion. Money from the Harris Family-Help-Family campaign, the city and county emergency appropriations and the Talbot bill is reported sufficient to meet immediate needs.

Dix, Harding To Co-Star In Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.

It must have been the truth about those big stellar casts this year.

R-K-O will make good its promise by co-starring Ann Harding and Richard Dix in one of the pictures on its new program. The presence of either one of these players is sufficient to assure a film a large audience. But David Selznick wants to give the entertainment shoppers a bargain they simply can't resist.

Richard Dix

And while it may be a little premature I can tell you the studio is considering "March Of A Nation" as the vehicle for this important cinema union. Writers have been assigned to whip the story into shape for a co-starring picture and Mr. Selznick and his assistants are scanning the schedule to see where it might be worked in.

"March Of A Nation" is the much discussed companion picture to "Cimarron," and will be a real special. The film was supposed to have been made last year, but was postponed because the waning season promised location difficulties.

"Who was that, Al?" someone asked.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Lillian Bond

OPTION ON MISS BOND

Two gentlemen call to tell me that Raul Gurruchaga, a member of the Argentine diplomatic service, will start another Hollywood in Buenos Aires because the studios refuse to produce Spanish pictures with the South American dialect . . . Universal has taken an option on the future services of the English actress, Lillian Bond. . . . Newest tennis coach for the Malibu colony is Brian I. C. Norton, South African Davis Cup player.

The leading feminine player in R-K-O's "The Most Dangerous Game" will be Fay Wray and not Margaret Perry, as originally planned. Miss Wray, the wife of John Monk Saunders, also is appearing in this studio's mystery picture variously known as "Eighth Wonder" and "Kong."

You'll recall "The Most Dangerous Game" is Richard Connell's classic short story about two men who agree to hunt each other on an isolated island.

One-Man Operation For Crosstown Cars

Inauguration of one-man car service on the Crosstown line of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, better known as routes 22 and 22-85, was announced today. Officials said "rush hour service" would be improved with the addition of extra cars. Of 839 cars now operated 505 are one-man cars, it was said.

Peddler Gets Clock To Wake Up Lazy, Old Mare

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP)—From now on, John Iffenich's mare, Dolly, will have to get up on time.

Iffenich, a peddler, accepted in Judge Donald McKinley's court 76 cents and an alarm clock in settlement for the wrecking of his cart by an automobile driven by Allen Riley, a 16-year-old high school student. Iffenich explained:

"It's not for me I want the clock—it's for poor old Dolly. She does so hate to get up."

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"DEAR MARK," writes Lester C. B., "here's a little yarn that gave me quite a kick when I heard it a few days ago. If you care to use it, it's okay with me. If not—well, you'll know that my heart is in the right place. And isn't that unusual for one of your readers?

"It seems that Frank Smith was driving to Canada on a business trip. Because he had an appointment for a certain day and his time was rather limited, he had the old boiler rattling along at a fast clip most of the way from Buffalo. Upon steaming into a town of medium size he was stopped by a red light along the main thoroughfare. And while he was muttering things about that light, his eyes fell upon a well-dressed young man who was standing along the curb.

"Smith saw that the fellow seemed to be waiting for a bus—or whatever means of transportation the inhabitants of that town use. Believe it or not he might have been waiting for a street car. At any rate Smith asked the chap if he wanted a ride. The other nodded. And in a few minutes the old bus was plugging along the highway at a 50-mile-per-hour clip.

About five miles out one of those annoying individuals with brass buttons and a motorcycle appeared on the scene and motioned Smith to one side of the road. After the usual browbeating, 'John Law' instructed Frank to accompany him back to the justice of the peace.

Of course our hero argued. He had to be in Windsor to keep a very important business date. He couldn't possibly lose any time. Why couldn't the officer give him a ticket and let him proceed to his destination? The cop must have been a trifle human after all, for he decided to allow the car to continue the journey—after, of course, giving Smith the ticket and instructing him to appear the following afternoon in the town through which he had just passed.

"So on they went. The driver was doing a beautiful job of beefing when the passenger suddenly assured him that all would be well.

"'Don't worry about it, my friend,' comforted the rider. 'Nothing will ever come of it. Just forget about it.'

"'Don't worry about it!' he exclaimed. 'Sure, I'd say the same thing myself if I saw somebody else getting a ticket. Don't you realize what this means? I've got an important engagement in Windsor in the morning. Now, I'll have to cut my trip short in order to be back there in that spot in the afternoon. More, there will undoubtedly be a stiff fine. And you tell me not to worry about it. That's a laugh.'

"'But,' went on the passenger, 'there's nothing—'

"Smith interrupted the other man and, in a manner that was far from cordial, told him to mind his own business. For the remainder of the trip neither man spoke a word.

They finally arrived in Windsor and the driver pulled to the curb to let his passenger out.

"'Here you are,' he mumbled. 'It was nice to have had your company. Sorry, I grew slightly peeved at you there for awhile. I guess that doggone cop got on my nerves. He just about ruined my trip.'

"The other man extended his hand and smiled affably.

"'When I told you back there not to worry about that ticket,' he explained, 'I meant exactly that. You see, I didn't mention a word about my business connections. I just let you do all the talking. But maybe this will explain the reason for my telling you not to worry about that ticket. And it might, also, give you an idea of my profession.'

"DEAR MARK: Your story in a recent column, concerning a street car conductor and a sum of money, reminds me of an actual happening in my home town a few years ago. I thought you might be able to use it some time. But if you do, please omit my name.

"Mr. B., the conductor, had been on our line a great many years. He knew everyone, and everyone knew him. Because of his courteous ways, he was extremely well liked.

"A man and his wife owned a large chicken and dairy farm on the outskirts of town and had been more than normally successful. Every two weeks or so, Mrs. F. had her husband drive her to the trolley via their horse and wagon, and she went to the city to bank her money. As she herself said, they would never be foolish enough to spend any money on a car.

"One day she boarded Mr. B.'s trolley with a considerable amount of money in her purse. After she had left the trolley in the city, Mr. B. found the money between two seats. He reported it to the company. And that afternoon, when he had completed his day's work, he drove to Mrs. F.'s home in his trusty Ford and returned the money.

"Both Mr. and Mrs. F. thanked him with tears in their eyes. They promised him that he would not be forgotten.

"The very next time that Mrs. F. went to town, she brought a package to Mr. B. She made a very pretty speech about his honesty and said that she was bringing him this gift because she honestly felt that he was entitled to a reward.

As soon as the opportunity presented itself, Mr. B. opened his precious gift. And inside he found—believe it or not—six eggs!" . . .

Musical Show Beauty Enters Movies

Preferring a career on the screen to a joint contract with Flo Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll, Dolores Rey has resigned her dual engagement with the glorifiers of American beauty to sign a long-term contract with Columbia Pictures, and will leave immediately for Hollywood.

Miss Rey was "discovered" by Ziegfeld and Carroll at the Casino in Central Park, where she had dropped in for dinner. Both tried to obtain her services for their respective shows, bidding against each other. A dual engagement followed. She has appeared in "Showgirl," "Smiles" and "The Vanities."

Hollywood Barbers Do Rush Trade

The barbers in Hollywood are doing a rushing business these days. With the coming season three young Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer players have decided to part with the long tresses. Myrna Loy, Joan Marsh and Mary Carlisle are the ladies who have summoned up courage enough to be shorn.

Virginia Bruce to Be Leading Lady

Virginia Bruce, who was recently signed to a long-term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, will be John Gilbert's leading lady in "Downstairs," the star's new picture, scheduled to go into production soon. Miss Bruce last appeared in "The Miracle Man."

Comedy Film In Fulton

By EDWARD W. GOSS

An excellent screen comedy, "The Misleading Lady," is showing today in the Fulton. The story concerns a bored society girl, played by Claudette Colbert, who tires of small talk and cocktails. The girl decides to go on the stage. Now enters Edmund Lowe as a mining engineer fresh from five years in the wilds of South America.

In order to prove that she has acting ability Claudette, the society girl, makes a wager with a theatrical manager that she can cause Edmund, the engineer, to love her. Claudette wins the bet. Just how she wins it makes the picture.

"The Misleading Lady" was cleverly directed for the two types of comedy lovers. Those who find pleasure in comedy based on subtle acting and neatly turned dialogue will have their desires satisfied by Claudette and Edmund. The customers who vent loud laughs at the actions of a "nut" comedian will applaud the work of Stuart Erwin. Stuart plays an escaped inmate of an institute for the insane. His acting easily equals that of Miss Colbert and Lowe.

One of the most amusing spots of the film comes when Edmund adopts cave-man tactics in his love-making. This portion of the picture is so utterly ridiculous the audience roars. Laughable situations and honestly funny lines well woven together make the production a worth-while piece of wholesome comedy.

The Fulton bill also includes Hearst Metrotone News, showing, among many events, New York's beer parade and the recent disastrous landing of the Akron.

La Del Rio Plays Charmer Role

Bald-headed row will have something to gasp about when Dolores Del Rio sears her way into local theaters with RKO-Radio's "The Bird of Paradise." She's a South Seas charmer in this story of a primitive Eve in love with a modern Adam.

Fall Causes Death Of Greenfield Man

John R. Hogg, 47, of 835 Greenfield avenue, died last night in his home from a fractured skull suffered May 5 when he lost his balance while moving a piano from his former home, 27 Brown place, according to a morgue report. The man fell to the sidewalk in front of the latter address.

Revue Talent Is Sought

Preliminaries are in operation for the staging of another "Pittsburgh On Parade" revue by Italena in the Stanley, to be headed by Joe Penner and Dick Powell. Those who wish to participate may register at Warner neighborhood theaters, where selection will be made next Friday night, May 27. Initial local winners will enter elimination tests in the Stanley and survivors will be engaged for the "Pittsburgh On Parade" show. Several who appeared in last year's show are now engaged in stage work and radio broadcasting.

Those who desire to enroll may do so at the Davis, Enright, Regent, Cameraphone, Rowland, Manor, Belmar, Schenley, Arsenal, Plaza, Kenyon, Harris, Etna, William Penn, South Hills, Mt. Oliver Memorial, McKeesport and Aldridge.

Lloyd Bent on Making College Comedy

Though he still has time to change his mind, Harold Lloyd seems bent on producing a college story, "Butterfingers," as his next comedy. Ever since "The Freshman," Harold has had such an idea in mind, but, for one reason or another, has never gotten around to it. Last year he even had his staff write a complete treatment of "Butterfingers," but changed to "Movie Crazy" when he heard that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and several other studios were preparing foootball pictures.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift four times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, then flour alternately with milk a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer cake pans in a 375-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Put together with sliced bananas, mountain cream icing and sprinkle generously with cocoanut.

Serves two liberally and four moderately.

Mix 1/4 cup crumbs and 3 tablespoons grated cheese and sprinkle over the top. Bake until brown. Serves four.

SPRING VANITY One pound rhubarb, 1 package shredded cocoanut, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 4 ounces marshmallows.

Use "strawberry" variety rhubarb, cut in 1-inch cubes, add sugar and cook in a covered pan over a low flame until the juice begin to flow. Then uncover, and cook with occasional stirring to the consistency of marmalade. Fold the 2 cups of quartered marshmallows into the hot pulp, stirring until they are melted. Add 1 cup cocoanut. Place in sherbert glasses, sprinkle with the remaining 1/3 cup cocoanut. Chill thoroughly. Six servings.

Sift flour, salt and baking powder into a mixing bowl. Mix dates and coarsely chopped nuts through the flour with the finger tips. Beat eggs, add vanilla, beat in sugar gradually, stir in the flour, dates and nut mixture. Bake in a well-oiled shallow pan in a slow oven (325° F.) for 45 to 60 minutes. Remove from pan, cool, cut in squares and serve with whipped cream.

Macaroni Products Provide Necessary Energy

These foods rank high in fuel value and are important in the diet, noted physician says.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.

Many individuals believe that all macaroni and spaghetti come from Italy. It is interesting to learn that this popular food is extensively produced in this country. A recent newspaper article reports that Texas now cultivates sufficient wheat of the variety to make these products to provide for more than a million-dollar macaroni crop annually.

Spaghetti was first introduced into China many centuries ago. It was then brought to Europe and first used by the Germans. In the fourteenth century Italy was the only nation eating spaghetti and for a full century the secret of its manufacture was carefully guarded. Later its use and popularity spread throughout the civilized world.

Macaroni and spaghetti deserve their popularity. They are rich in calories and belong to a class of foods called carbohydrates.

Carbohydrates furnish the body with fuel and energy. Fuel foods are important in the diet for they provide the energy necessary for the day's work. Foods vary in their fuel value. Macaroni products rank high in this respect.

In this country macaroni products are made from the gluten part of Durnam wheat or of hard spring wheat. The gluten, the coarse part of which is known as "semolina," is the choicest and most nutritious part of the wheat kernel.

When the dough is made it is transferred to a circular kneading machine where it is worked until it has developed a certain elasticity. Then it is formed into macaroni by forcing it under high pressure through a cylinder with a bronze die at the bottom. The die contains small holes about a quarter of an inch in diameter. Each hole has a small pin in the center. This pin pierces the dough as it passes through producing the form with which we are familiar.

Since macaroni products are high in caloric and fuel value they should not be served with other starchy foods. They may be substituted for other carbohydrates. Instead of serving them as part of a meal, use macaroni or spaghetti as a main dish. When served with cheese these highly nutritious foods supply as many calories as are found in the average meal.

For the busy housewife macaroni products aid in planning a varied and inexpensive menu. Bear in mind that it is not essential to purchase imported macaroni.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Married Folk With Opposing Ideas Must Compromise

He's a masculine version of "Alice-sit-by-the-fire," while, on the contrary, she likes lots of fun and frolic.

Will they be able to travel happily in double harness?

Just now they're deeply in love. Each sees the other through a rosy glamor that passes up all differences and all faults; and, I suspect, each thinks that love will make the other over.

Will it? Or will they soon begin to scrap because it hasn't? Dear Sally

Here is another muddled soul for you to straighten out if you can. Yes, it is love, and real love, too, I think. But my folks persist in thinking it won't last. I don't believe that, but I will tell you just what the trouble is.

You see, Jim is an awfully quiet fellow. He is very dependable and generous, and he works hard. I know he will make something of himself some day, because he is smart and ambitious, and I am happy just being with him. But here is where the trouble comes in to hear my folks tell it.

He doesn't believe in dances and parties and things like that. He loves to just stay at home and enjoy a quiet evening, and he thinks "chasing around," as he calls it, is silly. He hates to get in a crowd. He says he sees enough people at work.

On the other hand, I have always been lively and have always gone to a great many dances and parties. I love it. I love to have lots of people around me. I always have and I know that I always will.

DISAGREES WITH MOTHER

My mother says that I could never be happy with a quiet fellow like Jim, but I don't agree with her. I know he loves me deeply and he would do anything to make me happy. Don't you think that the fact that he does love me will change him—that he will be willing to go out for my sake when he sees that it really means so much to me to be sociable and have lots of friends?

Of course, now he does talk a lot about life being "just us two together," but don't you think he will get over that when he realizes that I just can't sit still at home all the time?

Please help me. My mother thinks I should break with him, but I can't do that. It would break my heart. What do you think? SOPHIE.

MUST COMPROMISE

Do I think love will change him? No, honey, disappointed as it may make you, I don't.

And why don't I? Well, now stop and think a minute! Has it changed you? Has it made you willing to "sit still at home all the time" with him? No. You admit yourself that it hasn't.

Then why should you expect it to make him over? Why should you expect it to make him learn to like fluff and parties?

Then should you break with him? Not necessarily. Not if you're both willing to face your differences, and if you're both willing to change a little. Not if you're willing to sit at home part of the time, and if he's willing to stir out and go places part of the time.

And after all, compromising like that is just life, youngster. You'll never be able to do everything your way, no matter whom you marry, or even if you don't marry. So if you're big enough to talk things over and try to see each other's side, and make an effort to honestly give each other a break, then go ahead.

But if either of you expects love to revamp the other into a carbon copy of yourself, then you'd better break while the breaking's good.

One Should Never Condone Misrepresentation, Declares Fay King

By FAY KING

One ought never to condone misrepresentation.

Yet I always find myself a little inclined to approve of these rascally gentlemen who assume phoney titles and succeed so beautifully in fooling snobs.

A title has such an effect upon some persons.

They would fail to appreciate the best of characters, the loftiest ideals and talents when they are enshrined in the person of a humble worker.

But they are dazzled to blindness which cannot see the most flagrant flaws of health or morals in any one who seems to wear a title.

They could easily overlook all else if only the title remains intact.

By E. V. SHEPARD

A Cleverly Played Hand

It is always a pleasure to see a hand played so well as to leave nothing to chance. The hand given below was exceptionally well played. Perhaps a game contract would never have been reached had A not been so aggressive, but his cards justified trying to outbid Y-Z, and also warranted his unsuccessful double.

Under any bidding system Z's hand is not quite strong enough to justify the use of a demand bid. Under official rules Z's hand urgently obligates an opening bid of 2-Hearts, as a semi-demand for partner to respond. Z made his opening bid of 2-Hearts, and A made an informatory double upon an ideal hand for forcing a response from partner.

Nearly always it is difficult to say definitely what a player might have done had conditions been different. Had A not doubled it is possible that Y would have passed upon such slender strength. How could Y know that Z would have been justified in making an opening bid of 4-Hearts, upon eight tricks spread? As long as A did double, Y's best policy was to pass, to note just what Z would do over B's obligatory response to the double. Y passed.

Of course B had to respond with 3-Diamonds, even upon his weak holding. Z bid 3-Hearts and A went 4-Diamonds. Aroused by Z's rebid, showing greater strength than announced by his opening bid, Y bid 4-Hearts. B and Z passed. A made a business double.

Of course the opening lead was the K of diamonds. To show the length of his diamond sequence, A next led the J, followed by the 10 of hearts. This trump lead almost shrieked that A held both the missing black kings; a thing that the informatory double had suggested previously. To see how trumps were held adversely, Z took another round of trumps, leading his Q. A gave no information concerning his side holdings when he discarded his useless Q of diamonds.

The declarer had lost two diamond tricks. He could afford to lose a trick to one of A's side kings, but not to both of them. Leading a spade would do no good, as A would win a trick in that suit, then he would lead back a spade, to put Y or Z in the lead. The only lead that could afford two spade discards for Z was a club lead. Z led his Ace of clubs, followed by the deuce. Of course, A dared not refuse to win the trick with his K. He took the trick, then led back the 10 of clubs. Dummy played low, B discarded a spade, and Z trumped with his 9.

Y's was put in the lead with Z's 3 of hearts. A discarded his last diamond. Y's 8 of trumps dropped B's last heart. Then Y led his Q and J of clubs, upon which Z discarded his two low spades, making every other card in his hand good.

The way the declarer played the hand, correctly assuming that A held both black kings, never gave A-B a chance to defeat the contract.

Tinted Sheets

If you like the new colored bed linen and have so much white you feel it an extravagance to buy new, take the oldest of those you have and dye them the shades you desire and that harmonize with your rooms.

Household Hints

A few drops of lemon juice on the shoebrush will help the polish to produce a brilliant shine.

When putting up curtains that are not put on rods, do not use tape, but try using hat elastic. This pulls the curtains tighter and makes them hang more evenly.

Such materials as crepon, crepola, and crinkly crepes require no ironing, but merely pulling straight with the hands before hanging them up to dry. Cotton and silk voiles, however, want careful ironing on the wrong side.

An ice cream carton makes an excellent mould for ice-box cookies. Press the mixture in firmly and put on the cover. Then, when wanted, just tear away the cardboard and you have a perfectly shaped cylinder all ready to be sliced.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Matter for Conciliation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me whether it is good manners to repeatedly correct those about you in their speech? A member of my family keeps correcting us constantly. I thought it was ignorant to correct your elders. It causes much unhappiness among us.

This member of the family happens to be my older brother, who is 21. I am 18. I refer to our parents as the "elders." Our speech is not at all so awfully poor that he should do this. SISTERS.

Few things can cause more unhappiness in the family circle than this constant "nagging" by some member of the family who sets himself or herself up as perfection. It takes from the family that most liveable-with and healing of virtues—pleasantness.

A warning about this: it should not be met with a similar nagging, for this only makes matters worse. It should instead be dealt with in a conciliatory way, with pleasant and friendly chat. Take your brother aside some day when he seems in a good mood for conciliation, and show him in the most gracious way possible that he is making the family unnecessarily unhappy, and suggest that he try silence and human tolerance" for awhile. And what exquisiteness and delicacy this will take only a sister will realize.

The Formal Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A reporter for the local paper has been putting names in reports of club meetings—"Miss Ada Adams, Mrs. Bessie Brooks, Mrs. Carrie Clark," and so forth.

I told him that he should either put it "Ada Adams, Bessie Brooks, Carrie Clark," or "Miss Ada Adams, Mrs. Bert Brooks and Mrs. Charles Clark," and I told him that I thought the first would be my choice, because in our small town everyone knows who is married and who is single, and it makes no difference to strangers. He said that the newspaper preferred the titles.

Of course, I have read your instructive column long enough to know that it is never Mrs. Bessie Brooks, but I wonder if newspapers really do have a different code of etiquette? N.

When the names are used in such newspaper items, the formal names should be used . . ., even if people do know one another so well. It should read Mrs. Bertram Brooks (unless Bert is not a nickname), Mrs. Charles Clark, Miss Ada Adams. (The names of married women should be given first in a list.) I agree with the newspaper in insisting on the use of titles, and then to be consistent and correct, the formal form of the name should be used.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Scare Your Child About Its Heart Murmur

We occasionally hear a mother say that her child has a "murmur" or "leak" of the heart. She restrains the youngster from [illegible] and exciting play and the child grows up believing he is an invalid for the rest of his life. This is an unfortunate state of affairs.

Dr. Copeland

A murmur is an abnormal heart sound. There are two types of murmurs. One is spoken of as a "functional murmur," and this is rarely a sign of any serious trouble with the heart, while an "organic murmur" is heard in a diseased heart, damaged by some infection.

Functional murmurs are common among children. Eight to 10 per cent of all children have murmurs at some time or another. Very often a functional murmur may be present for a time and as the child grows older the murmur disappears.

An organic murmur is usually the result of an infectious disease in childhood. Acute rheumatic fever is the most common cause of this disturbance, while pneumonia, scarlet fever, diphtheria or other infectious diseases may involve the heart and cause an organic murmur.

When this complication occurs during or immediately after an illness complete rest in bed and restriction of exercise are imperative. Restrictions can be removed when it is determined that the heart is functioning properly and that no signs of acute infection are present. This can only be decided by the physician.

Too often children with functional murmurs are made to suffer mentally and physically. If you have been told that your child has a murmur, inquire as to whether it is organic or functional. If it is a functional murmur there is no need for alarm. Even if it is organic it may not be serious.

The child should not be made to suffer by restricting his play and exercise. Bear in mind that making an invalid of a child can cause more harm than the disease itself. Many individuals with functional murmurs as well as organic murmurs, have carried on long, full and active lives.

If you are in doubt as to how much exercise and activity your child should be permitted, consult with your physician. Advice can be given only after the heart is carefully examined as to size, rate of beat, sound and character of murmur and efficiency of this vital organ.

Heart murmurs are receiving greater attention than ever before, and it is hoped that within a short time we will learn more about this condition and lessen its occurrence in childhood.

PUBLIC WORKS PLAN GAINS ADHERENTS

Opponents of Program for Speeding Public Projects Beginning to Break Down

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 20 — The reactionary attitude, which thus far has blocked important acceleration of public works as a business stabilizer, is beginning to break down. Opponents of the proposal argued that there were no additional public works to carry out and, furthermore, that under existing conditions funds could not be obtained through a bond issue.

Mr. Rukeyser

It is becoming increasingly apparent that both arguments are fallacious. This year as a matter of fact, it is estimated that there will be an actual decline of $1,500,000,000 from 1931 in public works. Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York has calculated that at least a billion dollars of federal public works already authorized needs to be financed. As for the feasibility of selling government bonds, they are still the one security which is universally in favor, and the current open market operations of the Federal Reserve System, which is taking advantage of the Glass-Steagall Act enormously increase the saleability of new United States government bonds.

In addition to the commonly understood types of public work which have already been authorized but for which appropriations have not yet been made, new and useful schemes have been suggested. For example, Morris Llewellyn Cooke, Philadelphia engineer, in his proposal says:

"I would refuse federal aid to back roads serving a few local people. But by the same token I would spend $1,000,000,000 on rural electrification alone without a tremor, because it would energize our agriculture, reduce costs, and, perhaps of even greater importance, make life on the farm a wholly different thing. As to floating $1,000,000,000 in bonds for this class of purposes I would not hesitate an instant. The problem is no longer one of stabilizing banks and avoiding railroad receiverships. Unless we can get the industrial wheels turning, the fat is in the fire for all but a restricted few, and it may not go so well even with minorities."

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Leaders Gain

Local List Steady

STOCK LEADERS RULE POINT HIGHER

Westinghouse, Telephone, Steel, Can Show Gains; Paramount, Loew's Off

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—Securities market derived considerable encouragement today from the announcement of the formation of a board of leading industrialists and bankers to assist the Reserve System in credit expansion, but early buying enthusiasm soon flagged, although prices maintained a good undertone.

Leading shares pushed up 1 to 2 points in active trading during the first half hour, eased back to lose about half their gains in the next two hours, but stiffened again after midday. An upswing in the bond market, particularly the rails, was helpful to shares. The general list ruled about a point higher by early afternoon.

Gains of 2 points or so were made in such issues as American Telephone, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Allied Chemical, Corn Products, Case, Eastman, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Westinghouse, and most of these issues retained a fair portion of their gains, although American Telephone lost all but a small fraction at one time. United States Steel advanced a full point, lost more of its rise, then stiffened again.

There were a few soft spots. Pacific Gas and Pacific Telephone each lost more than a point. International Telephone dipped a fraction to a new low under 4. Motion picture issues turned somewhat heavy. Paramount and Loew's sagging fractionally.

Aside from the rather intangible developments looking toward credit expansion, the market found little that it could regard as guidance in the day's news. The reconstruction loan to help the Pennsylvania Railroad's electrification plan had a beneficial effect upon Westinghouse. It was suggested in some banking quarters that the newly formed credit expansion board might take measures to facilitate private financing of a substantial amount of relief projects of a self-liquidating nature, or of the classification which already has the indorsement of Owen D. Young, chairman of the group, in connection with the relief program recently proposed in Washington.

In commodities, copper was sold as low as 4¼ cents a pound, off another ¼ of a cent, but zinc was a little firmer. The weekly mercantile reviews reported further rather scattered seasonal pickup in retail trade, and indicated that promotional campaigns, such as national cotton week, were meeting with a fairly gratifying degree of success.

The fresh snarl over the taxation bill in the Senate as a result of divergent opinions on the tariff provisions, was regarded in some quarters as an adverse influence, despite determination manifested by the party leaders to expedite the measure. The Senate's further investigation of pool manipulation was without visible influence upon the market.

GRAIN PRICES SCORE GAINS

CHICAGO, May 20.—Grain values scored an early advance today, influenced by announcement of a determined new effort by bankers and industrialists to bring about business revival. Opening unchanged to ⅛ higher, wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ¼@⅜ up and subsequently rose all around.

A quick general rise that in some cases went almost 2 cents above yesterday's finish took place in wheat. Much buying was apparently based on belief that commodity prices would be the first to reflect improved business conditions, and that nearly virtual failure of the domestic winter wheat crop in the southwest and west would make wheat the leader. Corn and oats rose with wheat.

Provisions were responsive to strength of cereals and to firmness of hog values.

RECTOR'S TRIAL LAID TO MALICE

LONDON, May 20.—(AP.)—Whether the Rev. H. F. Davidson wears pajamas or the old-fashioned nightshirt became a matter of importance today in the Consistory Court at Church House, Westminster, where he is being tried on charges of misconduct.

R. F. Levy, counsel for the 62-year-old rector, brought up the nightclothes issue in an effort to impeach the evidence of Barbara Harris, a pretty blonde and a member of the considerable group of young women who have testified against the clergyman.

Miss Harris, the counsel said, mentioned a pair of pajamas in this testimony. The rector never wore pajamas and the defense will so prove, Levy informed the court. He asserted that Miss Harris was lying out of malice and that she was "biting the hand that fed her."

The defense counsel's attack on Miss Harris came in a continuation of the speech he started yesterday in which he characterized Mr. Davidson as a "troublesome busybody" who "kisses all sorts of people."

DRY RAID IN '30 JAILS 3 HERE

The raid which prohibition agents conducted on what they described as one of the biggest alcohol plants in Pittsburgh in October, 1930, finally landed three of the prisoners in jail today. Thomas Parker, of Hoboken, N. J., was sentenced to five months, and George Dill and Joseph Weber, of New York, to six months, by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. They pleaded guilty.

When the agents raided the plant, in the 1,100 block of Vickroy street, on the Bluff, they reported finding, nearby, city policemen who explained they, too, had the plant under surveillance.

Six men were arrested. All six failed to appear for trial and their bonds of $3,000 each were forfeited. Since then the bonding company produced the three sentenced today. These three were described as employes.

Taken in the raid were a 4,500-gallon still, 8,560 gallons of alcohol and 45,000 gallons of mash.

RAIL LOAN AIDS WESTINGHOUSE

Production at the East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company will be increased as a result of the granting of a three-year loan of $27,500,000 to the Pennsylvania Railroad by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it was learned today.

Work on the railroad's electrification program between New York and Washington was threatened with suspension if assistance was not granted by the federal government.

Westinghouse had orders for a large share of the locomotives needed for the line as well as for other types of electrical equipment.

The projected terminal plan at Pittsburgh, which is being delayed by disputes with public utilities over the expenses of moving their facilities, was not taken under consideration in the application for the loan.

'Debunker' Urges Easy Loans to Jobless

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—A war on poverty, said W. E. Woodward, author of the novel "Bunk," is what the United States needs.

"We should have all the organization, crusading and planning, to stamp out poverty that we had to defeat any foreign enemy."

So said the man who may be remembered longest for his "De-bunking" lives of George Washington and Gen. Grant.

"I would provide that every man in the United States unemployed as long as three months could go and borrow half as much as he was earning on his last job, in no case exceeding a loan of $50 a month.

"Half of this loan would never be paid back. But it would create a buying power where it is most needed."

RIVERMEN FIND CADET'S BODY

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 20.—(AP.)—The body of Cadet Leo Adolph Skeim, of Cass Lake, Minn., was found in the Hudson River late yesterday by fishermen, officials of the U. S. Military Academy announced today.

Cadets Skeim and Allen Jackson Light, both qualified swimmers, obtained permission on April 30 to go canoeing. They did not return, and a search was started.

The canoe used by the cadets was found the following day. Apparently it had swamped, and the cadets had tried to swim to shore. The body of Cadet Skeim was found off Cornwall Landing. Cadet Light is still missing.

Cadet Skeim's mother, Mrs. Russell Needham, of Cass Lake, Minn., was notified last night of the recovery of his body. It was announced he will be buried in the post cemetery.

SEEK MAN GONE SIX MONTHS

The Missing Persons Bureau today was asked to search for Roy L. Haenel, 36, of 701 Woodbourne avenue, Beechview, missing six months.

Haenel, a salesman, former semi-pro baseball player, who managed the H. J. Heinz team, disappeared immediately after he had lost his position with a Chicago paper house, according to his wife, Kathleen, who reported his disappearance. She said the family had been conducting a private search since.

Haenel is a relative of Bill Reagen, infielder, now with Baltimore Internationals, and formerly with the Pittsburgh club.

Mrs. Haenel said her husband was much attached to his four sons, Roy, 12; Howard, 10; Robert, 8, and Richard, 3, and she believes he became despondent due to losing his position.

UTILITY REPORT DUE IN WEEK

A report on public utility companies' present attitude toward toward rate reductions is expected to be submitted to City Council within a week by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, on February 25 told Council the Duquesne Light Company and Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company would make slight reductions. Council regarded the cuts as insufficient and on Tuesday passed a resolution asking Waldschmidt to make an immediate report on the utilities' attitude regarding more substantial reductions.

Waldschmidt has been ill in his home for several days with a cold. Returning to his office today, he announced he would attempt to arrange an early conference with Phillips and other utility companies' officials and submit his report next week.

SCORES POLICE LAWLESSNESS

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(AP.)—A charge that "police lawlessness" is a contributing cause to present-day crime and radicalism was made before the National Conference of Social Work today by one of the men who helped gather data for the Wickersham Commission report.

Ernest J. Hopkins, field investigator for the commission and former worker for the California Commission on Immigration, assailed unlawful street beatings and shootings by police, unlawful arrests and punishments, deprivals of liberty and third-degree methods in an address on "Our Lawless Police" at the meeting of the social work group studying the problems of the immigrant.

He charged that police brutality is responsible for an increasing attitude of resentment and a cynical attitude toward the law on the part of immigrants and the first native-born generation of immigrants. He attacked recent police clubbing of participants in Communist parades.

Break Ground for Fair Farm Building

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—A century of progress in agriculture was exemplified today as a yoke of oxen helped break ground for the 1933 World's Fair Agricultural Building on the lake front.

FLINN HIGHWAY WORK URGED

Immediate reconstruction of the William Flinn highway from Pittsburgh to Butler is asked in a petition sent to Gov. Gifford Pinchot by Clarion County Commissioners. The petition, in the form of a resolution, points out that the highway is one of the most important in the Pittsburgh-Butler area.

While Clarion County is not directly affected by the present condition of the road, it will be brought nearer to Pittsburgh when the route is completed to Clarion.

Gov. Pinchot also has been asked by Joseph C. Trees, president of the William Flinn Highway Association, for further hearing on improvement of the road from Wildwood to Butler. Large placards have been posted along the road, reading:

"If you think this road is bad, write to Gov. Pinchot and tell him why you think it should be improved."

BELL BAIL PLEA TO BE ARGUED

The legal fight of John A. Bell, former millionaire banker and coal operator, to have canceled a $30,000 bond which he put up to guarantee payment of a $19,000 fine at the time he was convicted of embezzlement and sentenced to six and one-half years in jail, was to be argued before a full bench of Quarter Sessions Court this afternoon.

District Attorney A. T. Park filed an answer to Bell's petition this morning, denying the jurisdiction of the court and declaring that the petition is based on an "erroneous interpretation of the law."

The contention of Bell's counsel is that when he was paroled by the court after serving part of his jail sentence in the Allegheny General Hospital, the penalty of the court had been fully complied with; that the fine no longer stood, and that the bond should be canceled, to release securities posted to guarantee the bond.

Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt was to represent the commonwealth; Mortimer B. Lesher the county, and O. K. Eaton the Bell petitioners.

Senate Postpones O'Connor Approval

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—The renomination of T. V. O'Connor, New York, as chairman of the Shipping Board was passed over by the Senate last night at the request of Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, who is ill.

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, said he had been asked to make the request on McKellar's behalf. No indication as to the Tennessean's reasons for wanting the nomination held up was given. McKellar's associates expect him back next week.

CHAGNON PROVES HELPFUL ADDITION

LITTLE IMPORTANCE WAS attached to the return of Leon Chagnon to the Pittsburgh club three weeks ago, but the much-farmed recruit has proved rather a helpful addition to the staff. He has turned in a couple of stylish relief jobs since his recall. On May 7 he held the Phils to one hit in six innings, which was just a waste of labor, as the game was already lost. Yesterday he stepped in again, this time with better luck, holding the Dodgers hitless in the last two frames while the Pirates came from behind to win. Considered at first only another name on the roster, Chagnon hasn't suffered by comparison with other members of the staff.

Leon Chagnon

Three out of five from Brooklyn wasn't so bad. It is only the second series won this year, and may presage a brace by the Bucs on this present western jaunt. If they can win the first game of their series in St. Louis they will have accomplished something they haven't been able to do in their last 18 contests. That is the scoring of two victories in succession. They have done that only twice this season, both times against the Cardinals.

ONE OF THE rare instances in which a son has come along in later years to follow in the footsteps of his father as the star pitcher of the same college was brought to notice by the appearance in Pittsburgh on business of Baldy Wilson, one-time ace hurler of Princeton, now a Clarion banker.

Wilson is on the roll of Princeton's baseball immortals. He was one of the greatest college pitchers of any period. And right now his son, Winnie, is carrying on to add to the family fame as the leading pitcher of the same university. The younger Wilson won his first three games this season, but in his latest start against Harvard he lost the decision to the sensational Charles Devens. Incidentally, Devens fanned 15 Tigers to run his strikeout total to 72 in his last six games.

A SCOUT RANKING with the best the Pirates ever had may be available again next year. Joe Devine has been dismissed as manager of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League and ordered to report to Albuquerque in the Arizona-Texas League, a Mission farm, as a scout. His contract gave the club that right.

Fred Hofmann, veteran catcher, has been appointed to pilot the Missions, but it is said Mark Koenig is to get the job later. The Bells have had nine managers in six years—Walter McCredie, Al Walters, Harry Hooper, Walter Schmidt, Bill Leard, Wade Killefer, George Burns, Devine and Hofmann.

THE MISSIONS ARE in last place largely because the owner persisted in releasing players without consulting Devine. The latest were Jimmy Welch and Eddie Mulligan. Joe was seated on a train with the two players when he picked up a paper and read of their release. Coast critics say the dropping of Devine was no surprise at all; that no season would be complete without one or more managers being canned by President Joe Bearwald. "Bearwald knows as much about baseball as the admiral of the Swiss navy," writes one Los Angeles scribe. "A few years ago I had the temerity to suggest that Harry Hooper was not being allowed to run the Mission club. Hooper retorted that when he couldn't manage it as he saw fit he would be through. He was—before the season ended."

Battling Battalino

THE FACT THAT King Tut and Jimmy McLarnin came back and defeated Billy Petrolle after once losing to him proved that the contract is not an impossible one, yet it's difficult to figure any strong likelihood that Battling Battalino will succeed at the same undertaking in tonight's return bout with Petrolle in Chicago.

A fighter of Battalino's ability and courage must always be conceded to have a chance against anybody until he is beaten. Also, escaping a repetition of the severe cut that handicaped him from the hop-off, Bat may do better tonight than in the first meeting. But in all-around class there is such a clear edge for Petrolle that it will be surprising if the Fargo Express doesn't repeat his victory.

ANOTHER RETURN BOUT on the card for tonight holds out a prospect of much closer going. Sammy Fuller and Jack (Kid) Berg, who fought a draw in their first tangle, are to meet again in New York, with the distance stretched from 10 rounds to 12.

It shapes up as an even match that may go either way, but if there is a shade at all it seems to be on the side of Fuller, who looks to be just a little bit the better of the two in general fighting qualities and may profit by what he learned of Berg's style in their original encounter.

KENTUCKY GOT AN extra kick out of the victory of Burgoo King in the Preakness because it brought back to that state the famous Woodlawn Vase for the first time since 1877. Produced by Tiffany in 1860 for Col. R. A. Alexander, of Louisville, the trophy was won in 1860 and 1861 by Capt. Ben Morris' mare, Mollie Jackson. The Civil War prevented further competition at that time, and the vase was buried at Woodlawn in Kentucky with the remainder of the Morris family plate. The Dwyer brothers went to Louisville in 1877 and captured the trophy with their horse Bramble, presenting it to the Coney Island Jockey Club. That was the first time it had ever left Kentucky. It was competed for later at various tracks and has been the Preakness prize since 1917. Kentucky now gets it back after 55 years.

FRANCIS OUIMET, who came back after 17 years to win the United States amateur golf championship in 1931, set a new course record of 67 at Cohasset the other day while playing a round with Bill Cunningham. When Ouimet's record-breaking card was posted, Cunningham was asked how the champion had played various shots.

"I don't know," replied Bill. "I haven't the faintest idea. I saw him only on the tees and greens. It's true that we played together, but it was only in a way. While he was on the fairway, I was out in the woods with my mashie and my Maker."

MRS. SIMON T. PATTERSON'S 7-year-old thoroughbred Prince H., which the Pittsburgh sportswoman has entered in the hunter class at the annual Allegheny Country Club horse show, to be held June June 2, 3 and 4, for the benefit of the unemployed of Allegheny County, is one of America's outstanding show animals.

Mrs. S. T. Patterson

Prince H., standing 16.3 hands, is by Pittow-Prince Cunard, two of the bluest of the equine blueboods. He won the acclaim of thousands at a number of shows in the Middlewest and the East, and his owner is the proud possessor of 16 firsts, eight seconds, 11 thirds, four fourths, one fifth, two championships and two cups won by him.

AND THAT'S NOT mentioning the numerous cash prizes taken down. In addition to the local ring, Prince H. numbers among the scenes of his conquests, the arenas of Devon, Worthington Valley, Fairfield Hunt, Stamford, Toledo, Bryn Mawr, Rochester and the Grand National. Mrs. Patterson gives a great deal of personal attention to the horse's schooling, and friends of one of the few side-saddle riders, as well as admirers of the animal itself, are confidently looking forward to another string of victories this year, particularly at the benefit show in June. Mrs. Patterson this year has already shown Prince H. at the Atlantic City Show and in Washington.

JACK WILSON EASY VICTIM FOR BUCK

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Buck McTiernan has come back!

Back at least over part of the ground he lost in a disastrous campaign last year. And with promise of a complete recovery.

Fighting and boxing in something approaching the best manner of his early days, the Swissvale middleweight last night handed Jack Wilson, of Oakland, a decisive beating over the 10-round route in the main bout of the opening show of the outdoor season before a fair-sized crowd at Hickey Park, Millvale.

Buck McTiernan

A trifle less fast at 157¾ pounds, McTiernan made up for this lack with added strength, endurance and ability to take a punch, and he forced the going all of the way, slugging more than boxing, and winning back the plaudits of the fans who had turned against him after a series of defeats last year. He punched Wilson, a sturdy foe, into submission and had him weak and hanging on throughout the closing rounds. There were no knockdowns.

FINISHES FRESH

McTiernan won every round and was fresh at the finish. He was punching well to the body once more with a pounding left hook, his best punch in the days when he first showed signs of ring greatness. He had Wilson wincing under the impact of these blows and several times complaining about being hit low when, as a matter of fact, the punches were sinking in above the waist line. It was a great comeback for McTiernan, and his second win in a row following a layoff of months. He recently defeated Joe Trimpe in an eight-round bout in Erie. Jack Barry, of Erie, his new manager, seconded him last night.

It was a wild, rough, punching battle, with McTiernan's quicker thinking and moving giving him the upper hand throughout. Wilson could not evade the left to the body and fast jabs frequently bobbed his head back and blinded him to rights that followed. And McTiernan's constant crowding kept him from organizing offensives of his own.

ROUT IN LATE ROUNDS

McTiernan suffered a slight cut on his right eye in the opening round, but was not noticeably handicapped by it. He had Wilson dazed in the third round and they fought after the bell. The first four rounds were fought at a terrific pace and the battle did not slacken until Wilson came up for the fifth, tired and weakened. He held on considerably thereafter.

McTiernan was in trouble only once. That was in the seventh round, when, in making a slugging bid for a knockout, he himself was shaken with a right and had to hold on in a series of clinches. Wilson fought himself out trying to following up effectively and was well fagged as the round ended. From then on it was a rout, with Wilson on the receiving end, too tired and slow to make any serious effort to get back into the running. He scaled 157 pounds for the melee.

BUCCOS DOWN DODGERS IN SERIES FINAL

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—The Pirates are back in St. Louis, where almost six weeks ago they started a long grind which promises some very interesting developments before the curtain falls in late September. The Buccos were filled with hope and ginger as they jumped off against the world champions here and inasmuch as they were able to win two of their four scraps with the champs they and their backers naturally looked for better things than those which came to pass in the intervening period.

But while the Pittsburghs are in last place in the National League, their position cannot be said to be desperate. It should be remebered they have traveled their rocky road without the services of two of the best pitchers in the National League—Heinie Meine and Remy Kremer.

PIRATE HOPES HIGH

On the other hand, the Pirates are not deeply entrenched in the cellar. True they do not appear formidable as they face a hard schedule, yet the race in the senior belt is so badly scrambled that almost anything can happen. As they prepare to engage in the first battle of a four-game series with the Cardinals, the Freebooters are only one game below the Dodgers, whom they defeated in Pittsburgh yesterday.

The first clash of the series here is likely to bring a slab fight between Larry French, southpaw star of the Pirates, who has been running into one misfortune after the other this year, and Jerome Dean, sometimes referred to as Dizzy Dean.

The Buccos had to fight from behind to record a 3 to 2 decision over Max Carey's Dodgers before they hustled away to St. Louis. The Pirates were trailing by a run as late as the eighth inning.

BUCS GET BREAKS

The breaks of the game favored the Buccos at the start of the inning. Floyd Vaughan reached base on a single that seemed like an easy roller to George Kelly when it hopped high. Traynor was attempting to bunt when he was hit with a pitch. Manager Max Carey halted the game to remove Joe Shaute, who had been twirling like a champ. Carey, however, wished to inject a righthander against Slugger Dave Barbee.

The veteran Jack Quinn hustled to the hill and pitched to Barbee, who bunted. Traynor was forced on the bunt, but Vaughan reached third. Jensen ran for Barbee. Suhr's single to center scored Vaughan and sent Jensen to third. Jensen scored the winning marker on Piet's fly to Rosenfeld.

PIRATES AWAIT DODGER O. K.

Pirate officials this afternoon eagerly awaited a message from the officials of the Brooklyn club relative to the flat proposition made by the Pittsburgh management yesterday concerning a deal involving Pitcher Heinie Meine.

Manager Carey, of the Dodgers, was expected to confer with the Brooklyn president, Frank York, upon Carey's arrival in Brooklyn today. The Dodger bosses were expected to make a reply some time today.

It is believed that four or perhaps five players are considered in the trade proposal between the two clubs.

W.-J. Net Team Wins Over Dukes

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 20.—Washington and Jefferson College tennis players won their first match of the season here yesterday at the expense of Duquesne University. The score was 4 to 3. Wash-Jeff captured three of the four singles matches and divided the doubles play with the Dukes. The summary:

Doubles—Thompson and Ludwig, W. & J., defeated Case and O'Neil, Duquesne, 6-4, 6-2; Bullion and Bowson, Duquesne, defeated Perkins and Graham, W. & J., 6-4, 5-7, 8-6.

Murray Captures First in Shoot

Eugene Murray's 99 took down first honors in the May shoot of the West Penn Trapshooting League at the Chartiers Heights Country Club traps yesterday. C. C. Smith, of Ohio, was second with 96. In the doubles Campbell, of Canonsburg, broke a 45 and Frank Neville 44.

AMERICAN HORSE WINS

LINFIELD, Eng., May 20. (AP.)—Eugene Aware, by The American M. D. Blair, today won the Cosmopolitan Cup at 2½ miles by a neck from A. E. Berry's Bill Fallon. Lord Rosebery's Boldero was third. Nine ran.

Canadian Olympic Team Is Given Aid

OTTAWA, Ontario, May 20.—(AP.)—The Canadian government will make a grant of $10,000 to help defray expenses of the Canadian Olympic team, E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, announces.

No item to cover the Olympic expenses had appeared in the supplementary estimates and led to fear that the money would not be provided.

MGR. GIBSON'S BROTHER DEAD

Gibson was born in Toronto and had been a life-long resident of the city.

"Recovering very nicely" was the report of the South Side Hospital today on the condition of Rob Waddell, Carnegie Tech football coach, who underwent an appendicitis operation there Tuesday.

COLLEGE VARSITIES FACE TESTS

PITT TRACKERS HOPE TO WIN OVER W. VA.

By JESS CARVER

Tri-state district college track and tennis teams are confronted by exceptionally healthy week-end programs. The schedule is as robust as the athletes will have to be to withstand its challenge, which is some robust.

Pitt and West Virginia, Tech and Temple, Wash-Jeff and Western Reserve, Westminster and Geneva and Allegheny and Grove City engage in dual track and field meets. The Pitt and Kiski golf squads clash over the Kiski links and in tennis, Carnegie Tech's varsity racquet swingers complete their eastern trip by meeting New York U. and Wash-Jeff battles Geneva at Beaver Falls. St. Vincent's baseballers take on Kiski in an informal game and Penn State tackles Syracuse at Syracuse. All these engagements are listed for tomorrow. Today Pitt's netters meet Maryland at Westminster and Carnegie's test Georgetown at Washington.

GENEVA FACES TEST

The Geneva and West Virginia track and field teams are the ones that are doing the worrying, inasmuch as their prospective opponents, Pitt and Westminster, have shown unexpected strength in recent meets. Pitt gave Notre Dame a real argument last Saturday and took Carnegie with ease on Tuesday. Westminster walloped Bethany to a fare-the-well, 109-26, and will enter tomorrow's engagement with the Covenanters by no means a long shot.

Harry Brownlee, the crack all-round performer of the United Presbyterian squad, who hurdles, heaves the discus, the hammer and broad jumps, will be the favorite to carry off individual honors in the Reeves Stadium meet.

It is Carnegie's hope to do a comeback act against Temple University's Owls here in the Tartan Bowl. The defeat at the hands of Pitt, while expected, was more decisive than the Skibos like to contemplate. A win over Temple will, in a measure, assuage the sting of the Panther spanking.

PITT IN FORM

Pitt has high hopes of upsetting the calculations of the advanced thinkers and of taking West Virginia for a change. The Panthers, after a slow start, are rounding into really formidable condition, and will shoot individual stars of the ability of Woody Harris, Mike Sebastian, Joe Tormey, Jim Macmurdo, John Valenti, Jim Watkins, Jack Keller and Capt. Len Monheim at the Mountaineers.

A Pitt victory will not come as a complete shock, except to the Mountaineers.

The feature event of the day, of course, will be the annual W. P. I. A. L. championship meet in the Pitt Stadium, said meeting having been the cause of the Pitt-West Virginia engagement being shifted to Morgantown. New Castle, perennial victors, it seems, in the Pitt interscholastic carnival, rules a favorite to replace Washington as W. P. I. A. L. champ.

W.P.I.A.L. MEET ENTRY HEAVY

One of the largest entry lists in the history of the event has been compiled for the annual track and field championships to be staged tomorrow afternoon in the University of Pittsburgh Stadium.

Among the schools which will have teams competing in the various events are Aliquippa, Ambridge, Beaver, Beaver Falls, Bellevue, Braddock, Burgettstown, Butler, Connellsville, Dormont, Dunbar Township, Duquesne, East Huntingdon, East Pike Run, Ellwood City, Ford City, Georges Township, Greensburg, Har-Brack, Homestead, Latrobe, McDonald, McKees Rocks, Midland, Monessen, Monongahela, Mt. Lebanon, Mt. Pleasant, New Brighton, New Castle, Norwin, Rankin, South Union, Swissvale, Tarentum, Turtle Creek, Uniontown, Verona, Washington, Waynesburg, Wilkinsburg.

C. E. Glass, chairman of the W. P. I. A. L. track committee, will serve as director of the meet. The meet winner will receive the University of Pittsburgh trophy, while Carnegie Tech will present a trophy to the winning relay team.

The OLYMPIC GAMES

By Lawson Robertson

Head Coach American Olympic Teams

The best men we have are Ken Churchill, of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, with a mark of 223 feet, and James Demers, of the Los Angeles A. C., who has gone 222 feet 6½ inches.

I do not think either has reached his greatest ability, and I believe both will eclipse their existing marks this year. But the record is 239 feet 3¼ inches, and it is my thought that it will take a throw of around 230 feet to win the event. Matti Jarvinon, of Finland, is the holder of the record.

Whether either Churchill or Demers is capable of achieving such a distance is debatable. Both have been moving up their marks year after year, but, whether they can throw the javelin eight or nine feet farther in the Olympics is a wide open question.

Finland is the home of javelin throwers just now. I believe they have at least a half-dozen men who are capable of doing better than 223 feet. The best recorded mark by a Finn in 1931 was 227, by Pontilla, who is reported as throwing around 230 this spring.

Sule, of Esthonia, made the best showing last year. He negotiated 228 feet in a championship match, and was credited with better than 230 in various trials. Any repeating in the Olympics in Los Angeles might give him the crown.

The javelin throw was introduced into Olympics competition for the first time in 1906. E. Lomming, of Sweden, won with 175 feet 6 inches. He repeated his triumph in 1908 with a throw of 178 feet 7½ inches and won the title for the third time in 1912.

The Swedes have some very good javelin throwers now, but very little publicity has been given out about them. They may do as they did in 1828 and in the first year they showed up with Lomming, spring a big surprise by uncovering a champion who was kept in obscurity.

lightweight, in scoring a knockout in the second round over Matty (Popeye) Oldach, of Erie, in the semi-final, scheduled for six rounds, was the high spot of the show. Popeye recently trimmed Joey Speigal at the Moose Temple, but he didn't have a chance as Gornick swarmed all over him from the opening bell. A left hook stunned Matty and a right dropped him for a count of eight in his own corner soon after the start. He got up groggy, to be dropped for no count, and then fell weakly into the ropes twice. Another right felled him for nine in a neutral corner, but he rallied to hold off Gornick with some good boxing during the last half-minute of the round.

GORNICK SCORES KAYO

For two minutes of the second round, Oldach continued to box and did fairly well until Gornick again rushed and slugged and nailed him against the ropes with a left and then a right to the jaw. Oldach stiffened and fell sideways and twisted and landed on his back, knocked out cold. It was not until some 20 seconds after he had been counted out that his seconds were able to revive him and drag him to his corner.

Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight, 187½, returning after a layoff, knocked out Kid Gelbert, of Fairmont, W. Va., 184¾, in 2 minutes 29 seconds of the opening round, after Gelbert had started with a rush and dropped Frank for a count of one.

Billy Petrolle vs. Battling Battalino, 10 rounds, and Barney Ross vs. Dick Sisk, Louis (Kid) Kaplan vs. Prince Saunders and Tony Canzela vs. Joe Knight, 8 rounds each, and Paul Bazzo vs. Sammy Levine, 6 rounds, Stadium, Chicago.

A complicated situation faces the local boxing and wrestling promoters during the outdoor season that got under way at Hickey Park last night.

Three boxing clubs plan to operate in the district, along with at least one wrestling club, and postponements will be a nightmare for the sponsors of the shows.

At a meeting of the boxing commission, a ruling was made that each club will have one day in the same week on which to run off a postponed show, and, if the postponed date happens to conflict with a wrestling show, both will be run the same night.

The Meyers Bowl in North Braddock, oldest of the boxing clubs, has been awarded Monday nights, Greenlee Field, a newcomer, Wednesday nights, and Hickey Park, in Millvale, Thursday nights.

In the event of a postponement, the Bowl will run its show on Tuesday, Hickey Park on Friday and Greenlee Field on Saturday. In the event of a second postponement, the clubs either will have to put off their shows a week or more or cancel them entirely.

Between Rounds

With the Tony Canzoneri-Battling Gizzy show at the Bowl now only a matter of several nights away, the fans are getting on a keen edge for the embroglio and are awaiting the arrival of the principals in town. Canzoneri from New York and Gizzy from his training quarters at St. Michaels, near Johnstown. Meanwhile the sale of reserved seats continues heavy at the downtown headquarters of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, 534 Fifth avenue, and the show has all the earmarks of being the promoter's dream, a sellout. General admission tickets will be held back until the night of the show, when they will go on sale at the arena.

Russ Fields and Claire Repole will box the 10-round main bout of a benefit show at the Harding Stadium, Steubenville, O., next Thursday night. Johnny Cataline, local featherweight, meets Marty Tokomen, of Cleveland, in the eight-round semi-final. Young Ketchel boxes Sammy Lombardo in a six-rounder and Gene Marsh and Johnny Demko are down for four rounds.

Billy Petrolle is favored to repeat his recent victory over Battling Battalino when they meet in a 10-round bout in Chicago's Stadium tonight. The Jack (Kid) Berg-Sammy Fuller 12-rounder in New York's Madison Square Garden also is a return engagement, the pair having fought a 10-round draw there recently. Sammy Dorfman, well known to the local fans, meets Joey Costa in an eight-round preliminary.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, opens his open-air arena in Steubenville, O., tonight with two 10-round feature bouts, Mose Butch meeting Frisco Grande and Tony Marino opposing Joey Forchione.

Abie Witz, manager of Battling Gizzy, is on the point of betting his man will beat Champion Tony Canzoneri at the Bowl Monday night. He reports he never has seen his Battler in such good shape nor so confident about the outcome of a bout.

CADDIE AWARD WINNER NOW PITT GRAD

Europe-bound to visit places of artistic interest this summer, will be a Rosedale (Pa.) boy, Ralph (Bud) Clement. Rosedale is a little village that borders the Westmoreland Country Club, and here is the story of how the trip has been made possible.

Ralph Clement

Back in 1927, a number of the leading golf clubs in the tri-state district became much interested in the caddie welfare movement. Prominent members of the Westmoreland club, including Chester H. Lehman, E. B. Strassburger and Issac Hollender, decided to put up a scholarship each year for two boys. At the end of that season, the scholarships were awarded and they went to Ralph Clement and Ralph Young.

Clement, a diligent student at Westinghouse High School, was graduated with honors, and won a $600 scholarship, which, together with the $300 award from Westmoreland, was the foundation of four years' tuition at the University of Pittsburgh.

He was graduated from Pitt with honors last year, and won a $650 fellowship from the fine arts department.

Young graduated from the school of business administration with honors.

Clement finds time to help aid his parents in business and also conducts an orchestra. In a recent letter to Strassburger, chairman of the scholarship committee, a few months ago, he wrote:

"For some time I have neglected to express my gratitude for the assistance you have generously lent me. That help, combined with sincere application, has afforded me an enviable education and a happy future, for it has resulted in my winning again a fellowship from the Fine Arts Department of the University of Pittsburgh. In short, this recent award enables me to study in the graduate school for my master's degree to eventually place me in a position to teach the subject of fine arts. And, to make my prospects more favorable, the fellowship probably will afford me enough to travel next summer visiting places of artistic interest in Europe. Since I have been so fortunate and so highly honored as to receive these opportunities, I naturally desire to think my earliest benefactors. If at any time it is possible that I can express my appreciation to you in any other way but words, please do not hesitate to offer me the privilege."

U. S. WOMEN OPPOSE BRITONS

GLENNA, JOYCE TO MEET IN SINGLES

VIRGINIA WATER, SURREY, England, May 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, former American women's golf champion today was selected to carry the American standard against Joyce Wethered, captain of the English team, in the first singles match of the England-United States series tomorrow at Wentworth.

It will be the renewal of an old rivalry between the two women. Joyce always has won before.

Helen Hicks, current American champion, was named to play Enid Wilson, British titleholder. Virginia Van Wie was drawn against Wanda Morgan. Maureen Orcutt against Diana Fishwick. Mrs. Opal Hill against Molly Gourlay, and Mrs. Leona Cheney against Mrs. C. B. Watson.

Mrs. Vare and Miss Wethered also will meet in the foursome, the American leader pairing with Mrs. Opal Hill against Miss Wethered and Wanda Morgan.

Misses Van Wie and Hicks will play Miss Wilson and Mrs. Watson, and Mrs. Cheney and Miss Orcutt will match strokes with Miss Gourlay and Doris Park.

The foursomes are played as the Scotch play them—that is, each pair playing only one ball, alternating on each stroke.

The foursomes will be played in the morning and the six singles in the afternoon.

VENZKE THIRD IN N. Y. RACE

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—Glenn Venzke, holder of the world indoor mile record, was beaten in his first outdoor race of the season last night. He finished third behind Otto Rosner and George Bullwinkle of the New York Athletic Club in the 1,000 yard run at the New York Curb Exchange track and field meet held in Lewisohn Stadium.

Venzke made a futile attempt to catch Rosner, former Princeton ace, in the last lap, and then faltered in the final strides to allow Bullwinkle to take second place. Venzke finished three yards back of Rosner. The time was 2:12.4.

Leo Sexton, former Georgetown star, competing from the scratch, could do no better than second in the 16-pound shot put, with a heave of 50 feet 5 inches. Abe Oshkowitz of New York University, aided by a six-foot handicap, tossed the ball 52 feet 9 inches to win the event.

George Spitz, holder of the world indoor record of 6 feet 8 inches, leaped 6 feet 4 inches to win the running high jump. Howard Spencer, Geneva star, given a one-inch handicap, took second place with a jump of 6 feet 3 inches.

STRIKEOUT RECORD TIED

OAKLAND, Cal., May 20.—(AP.)—Fay Thomas equaled a Pacific Coast League record when he fanned six consecutive Portland batsmen last night, Oakland winning, 4 to 0. Thomas in all struck out 11 men and allowed only three hits. The strikeout record was set May 25, 1927, by Percy Gould.

IRELAND, HUNGARY TIE

DUBLIN, Ireland, May 20.—(AP.)—Ireland and Hungary broke even yesterday in the first two matches of their Davis Cup series. G. Lyttleton-Rogers, Ireland's ace, No. 1 star, defeated E. Gabrowitz, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, but Baron von Kehrling won from E. A. Maguire, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

NEW YORK, May 20.—The fans at Cincinnati have started hurling pop bottles at umpires. Last year that would never happen at the Cinci park, as the umpires outnumbered the fans then.

Nick Altrock

Folks ask how come our Washington club is soaring so high. Well, the secret of success is, we are kind to our mothers, we try to do a good deed every day, like knocking a pitcher off the slab, we lead clean lives and take shower baths even on off-days, and we never touch beer except in Washington. Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and maybe after exhibition games in Buffalo and Indianapolis.

Three tilts will be staged in the City League. The North Siders go to Homewood, Stowe travels to Dormont and Reliance Life goes to Olympia Park to meet Books.

LIFERS GET SMITH

George Miller has announced that Alex Smith, last year's classy third baseman, has signed a contract and soon will appear in a Reliance uniform.

The County League games are packing in the fans. This evening the Potts team, of Homestead, will visit Frick Park to clash with the home club.

GRAYS BEAT DETROIT

The Homestead Grays defeated the Detroit Wolverines in an East-West Negro League game at Forbes Field last evening, 9 to 4, the victory being the eighth to be recorded in the league by the Grays. Mallock, Gray hurler, blanked the Wolverines in eight of the nine innings.

J. W. Schorr, Dean Of Turfmen, Dies

He had a string of race horses that figured in turf history 15 years ago and he continued his interest in the sport after racing was outlawed in Tennessee in 1906.

His Lieber Karl won the Tennessee Derby at old Mountgomery Park here in 1898. The same year Lieber Karl finished second to Plaudit in the Kentucky Derby. It was the nearest Schorr ever came to being a Kentucky Derby winner. He tried again in 1913 with Leochares, but the horse failed to finish in the money.

W. G. A. TEAM MATCHES TOP GOLF CARD

By TOM BIRKS

Women's team matches hold the golf spotlight here today with competition scheduled in both sections of the league. Supporting the women's engagements are some promising scholastic matches.

In Section I of the women's league, Oakmont inaugurates defense of the title it captured last year, playing at the Pittsburgh Field Club. In Section II the contesting will be held over the Westmoreland Country Club course.

SCHOOL TEAMS MEET

A quartet of scholastic matches are listed for this afternoon. These tilts are creating quite a furore among the high school boys. It seems to be the fashion now for the high schools to have professional coaches and Walter Loeffler, the popular professional at South Hills, is to instruct the Carrick High School team.

In the collegiate realm, Penn State will clash with Cornell at Ithaca this afternoon and tomorrow the Blue and Gold of Pitt is going to have a tough afternoon when Kiski is met at Saltsburg.

PANTHERS FACE TEST

Bill Mercer and Jim Marks, the Kiski aces, have been running wild and Regis Wolff and Sekay, the Pitt stars, will have to flash their best brand of golf to hold that Kiski team in check.

Golfers watching Fred Brand, Jr., play in the P. G. A. tournament Wednesday feel that the big Penn State boy is going places this season in local tournaments. Fred also is feeling very confident. He is hitting a long ball and is playing his iron shots well. His putter has not been working so well, however.

ENTER MARATHON RACE

Frank Jerry, of New Castle, and Stephen Dudash, of Lucern, Allen, Pa., are among the entrants in the annual Baltimore marathon race, an Olympic tryout, to be staged Saturday, it was announced.

Fight Results

MOTORING SUGGESTIONS—CARE OF YOUR CAR

A valve, to function properly must be true with its seat. That is, the head must be in exactly the same plane as the seat, and both valve head and seat must be at right angles to the valve stem and guide. You, or an inexperienced mechanic can grind a valve, all right, and get somewhere at all unless the reseating is in accordance with these rules.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Colt went on through the memoranda that disclosed what was happening throughout the five boroughs of the Greater City. A trigger woman had killed her gangster lover not far from the Doyers street bend in Chinatown. She had got away, but an hour later her body, chopped in seven pieces, had been found in a baker's wagon on Third avenue.

Jewels were stolen from one of the important Fifth avenue jewelers. Johnny Silvers, the felon who had escaped from Sing Sing several months before, had at last been located. He had allowed himself to be arrested as a vagrant in a small Georgia town and had thus lain perfectly hidden in a small town jail. He would have remained entirely safe if he had not written a letter to his sweetheart in Brooklyn. The police had never stopped watching her; they got the letter first and Silvers had been in the lineup that morning. Apparently there was a fresh epidemic of hotel thieves operating in Brooklyn and Colt made a special notation to get Flynn busy on that as soon as the scorpion murder cases were disposed of.

"You must have hopes of cleaning the murders up pretty soon," I remarked, as I read that penciled memorandum.

"I do," he informed me. "There is only one thing needed to set us on the right track and I believe we shall have that in our hands in a few hours at the latest. I know now that this is not an original crime, Tony."

"I have heard you say that you do not believe there is such a thing as an original crime."

A SIMILAR CRIME

"Did I ever say that? Well, doubtless I was right. Anyway, I have just remembered the Falk case in Vienna. There was a scorpion shoved up the sleeve of a numismatist in that case. In many of its features the two sets of crimes resemble each other. It is possible that the killer of two of our victims had known of that case. On the other hand it may be a case of spontaneous similarity—like the patent applications that duplicate each other, constantly received in Washington. Or like the Evers case in Newark. Remember that one—where we found the body of the sailor, with a naked woman tatooed on his arm? And I said he wasn't a sailor because the United States Navy will not enlist a man who has pornographic tattooing—the prudes! Well, there is just as obvious a clue as that nude lady staring us in the face. I have seen it very early in the game, but there are some missing factors which are holding me up. When I have those factors, Tony, I expect to close up this case—and we will put the scorpion legs that old Prof. Luckner found for us in the glass case of the Headquarters Crime Museum. Meanwhile, Tony, let me remind you that you have not been home all night or all day. You have been without sleep for nearly 48 hours. What will the charming Betty Canfield Abbot think of me, if I keep you on the go like this? I stole you from her New Year's party last night and I have kept you here ever since. Call her up now and tell her that you are coming home."

The chief looked at his watch.

"But you will have to be back here by eight this evening," he stipulated.

I was grabbing hat and coat, ready to dash, when Capt. Israel Henry, the faithful, silver-haired, stole silently into the room and laid a thick envelope on the Commissioner's desk.

"A long dispatch from Paris," he announced.

REPORT ABOUT BASIL

I couldn't leave then. I knew how important the Paris information about Lola Carewe seemed to Colt. True, I could not see why. This was a New York crime and I could not understand how he could figure that its roots lay overseas. But I did know he was governed always by sheer reason—though at times it did seem a trifle adventurous—and that there was solid, practical sense behind his great expectancy. He was my chief, and he had slept no more than I. True again, there was no wife at home to worry and fret for Thatcher Colt. Which, so it seemed to me, was all the more reason I should stick with him. With this, my wife agrees, in principle.

Hastily Colt spread out the teletyped sheets. The report was made entirely in English, and consisted of a personal message from M. Dupont, the Prefect of the Parisian Police, to Thatcher Colt.

"I have made a complete survey of the history of Basil Boucher," cabled M. Dupont. "It is certain that the woman he loved was Lola Carewe, the woman whose murder you are investigating. I have made exhaustive inquiries to establish this fact. It is also certain that up to the time he met Lola Carewe, who lived alone in the Rue Bonaparte, this young man's was an exemplary life. He lived with his parents in the Rue du Temple, not far from the Square. Basil was a bank clerk who was even able to save money out of his meager salary, in addition to providing for his father and mother. They were superior people, and well educated, but they had come down in the world. Then the father died. It was soon after this—possibly because now he had more money to spend—that Basil began to play in his life. In fact, the young gentleman found himself for the first time in funds. He was not a wastrel, a gambler, or anything like that. But he just went around having a good time, modestly, and with gusto. There were several nymphes de la pave with whom he became rather well acquainted. He felt that no one of his friends or business associates was aware of these miniature adventures. And he felt himself something of a devil of a fellow.

Synopsis

Lola Carewe and her guest, Christine Quires, are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, the last person to see Christine alive. Lola had blackmailed Everett. He, however, claims that Christine discovered a plot to kill Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk, named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. After robbing a bank to buy her a ruby, Basil disappeared. His parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Edward Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. He had stated heart failure caused the deaths. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead—from a scorpion bite! Colt wonders if Baldwin was the victim of a trick or deliberately released the scorpion. In Baldwin's desk Colt finds a statement in which the doctor says he accidentally poisoned Gaylord Gifford, Lola's husband. Lola's knowledge of this placed Baldwin in her power. She forced him to supply narcotics which she used to victimize her friends and later blackmail them. Then she ordered him to obtain a scorpion to commit a murder. Baldwin learned that Vincent Rowland was behind Lola's activities. Realizing he would be exposed, Baldwin secured another scorpion and committed suicide. Because of the lack of evidence against Rowland, Colt objects to his immediate arrest.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Rejects Veritzen's Stage Offer

I brushed my hand before my eyes as Philip Veritzen said that I had sacrificed my first opportunity to go on the stage for my mother, and asked me if I were wise in sacrificing the second for my husband. I knew that my overstrained imagination was playing me tricks, but it seemed to me that there was something satyr-like in his face as he propounded the question, and I wondered if there could possibly be any truth in the conjecture which suddenly had come to me. Was the great producer urging me to a stage career because he knew that it would antagonize Dicky—at whom he plainly was angered—or at least I had thought so at the beginning of our interview?

Then my brain cleared, and I remembered the pride of this man—fanatical in its intensity—upon the subject of his dramatic judgment. Lillian, who knew him better than any of us, had confirmed this opinion when she had said that he never permitted any personal consideration to influence him in his critical opinion of a play or a player. He was like a devotee before an altar flame in his reverence for the absolutely impartial, unbiased judgment which he brought to things theatrical.

Incredible as it seemed, this thing was true! Philip Veritzen, the greatest theatrical producer of his time, believed that with a year's intensive training I could take a leading role in my own play. The thought was enough to give any woman a thrill, especially one who once had renounced a similar opportunity in early girlhood because of a mother's wishes. But I did not hesitate in answering him. I could not. And I spoke with a decision of finality that I hoped he would recognize.

REJECTS OFFER

"I am sorry," I said. "But I am sure I am very wise in refusing this wonderful offer of yours. It would be absolutely impossible for me to accept it. But I must put you right upon one point. I am not 'sacrificing' anything to this decision and especially there is no question of sacrifice where my husband is concerned. I simply realize it would be an absurd thing for me to enter upon a new career now, a career which should be begun in childhood or very young girlhood. I am past my first youth, and there are many roles I could not depict, because of that——"

"Will you please count upon the fingers of one hand the roles worth a tuppence which you could not play?" he asked.

"Ingenues—of course, no, and I think I should forbid Juliet"—he smiled again. "But there is no other note in the theatrical gamut of comedy or tragedy which you could not strike successfully. I give you my word upon it."

"Thank you so much," I said and added sincerely—"I shall always prize that opinion as about the nicest compliment I ever have received. But at the risk of offending you, I must tell you that I would far rather have your favorable opinion upon the fourth act which I have just read to you than to have you judge me the greatest actress in Christendom."

PRAISES HER WORK

"How remiss I am!" he exclaimed. "I have given you no inkling of my opinion of this work over which you have toiled so arduously and so successfully."

There was such meaning in the way he emphasized each word that my pulses began to pound excitedly.

"You have accomplished what I deemed was almost impossible for a tyro," he went on. "Your fourth act fulfills the promise of your other three, and the whole makes a drama which in my opinion will be what we designate as a 'knockout.' I shall put it into production immediately, unless you will reconsider your decision about the other angle. Won't you, at least, talk that over with your husband?"

I had a sudden mirthful vision of Dicky's face if I should repeat to him this proposal of Mr. Veritzen's and indicate ever so slightly that I was seriously considering it. But a look at Mr. Veritzen drove all feeling of mirth from my mind. There was a satyr-like look upon his face! I had not been mistaken! He would not let his inclination to wound Dicky interfere with his critical judgment of my "talent," as he had called it, but that having once been established in his mind, he was Puckishly ready to annoy Dicky by calling his attention to this proposal, which, coming from him, he knew very well could not help but be infuriating.

The Fair Rate Demand

The Public Will Be Glad to Know the City Authorities Are Continuing Negotiations

For several weeks officials involved in the City's negotiations with the Duquesne Light Company and other subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Company for lower rates for domestic consumers have had nothing to say for publication.

In the meantime irritation over excessive local rates for electric service has been increased by announcements that the charges for such service have been reduced in other Western Pennsylvania communities—in Natrona, Kane, Brockway and Punxsutawney, for example.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and his assistant in charge of public utilities matters, Charles P. Lang, broke their silence yesterday to the extent of disclosing that the local negotiations were still proceeding. The assurance is welcome.

It is to be hoped that the business will be concluded with the least possible delay, for while it remains unsettled the Duquesne Light Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company are taking thousands of dollars from the people of Pittsburgh in excessive charges.

Frank R. Phillips, president of the two companies, should put into effect at once the small reductions that he offered to City Council some time ago as payment for a pledge not to institute proceedings against the companies before the Public Service Commission. The reductions he offered were too slight, but the public would probably feel a little more kindly towards Phillips' companies if they would make even that concession to fair play.

While the City Solicitor and his assistant continue their negotiations for adequate electric light and bus rate reductions, it is to be hoped they will give gas and water rates some attention, too.

Unbusinesslike

Bills Owing to the County Reflect Slipshod Methods, Which the Commissioners Are Correcting

One of the commonest criticisms of public officials is that they are unbusinesslike in their methods. Policies are pursued which, in a commercial enterprise, would soon lead to bankruptcy. It is the public discontent with these slipshod methods that leads candidates for office so frequently to promise that if elected they will give "a business administration."

There is a reminder of this notoriously careless manner of transacting the public business in the disclosure that Allegheny County has owing to it unpaid bills totaling well over $1,100,000.

The debtors include the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Clairton, the State Highway Department, Westmoreland, Beaver and Washington counties, numerous boroughs and commercial corporations.

These bills are owing to the county for services rendered in connection with highway and other improvements. They are a heritage from former boards of County Commissioners.

It is gratifying to see the new board correcting the old negligence and doing things in a more businesslike way. On motion of Commissioner C. M. Barr the board decided yesterday to demand payment of the bills, and, if it should be refused, to sue.

The public will agree with the Commissioners that it is time for a reckoning. More than a million dollars of debts cannot be permitted to remain unpaid indefinitely.

No Time for Slackening

With prospects for a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan for federal public works becoming brighter every day, this is the time of times for the Pittsburgh district to press for the incorporation in the program of the projects that would most benefit us.

Among these projects is the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal, a waterway for which the business men of the Tri-State area have been calling for half a century.

Representative Mansfield, of Texas, chairman of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, is quoted in a Washington dispatch as saying that while hearings have been started on waterway projects, it is doubtful if there can be a hearing this session on the canal scheme, because a report on the project that Army engineers are to make has not yet been submitted.

This delay must not be permitted to chill enthusiasm for the canal or to cause any relaxing in the efforts to get the government to construct it. The campaign should continue with unabated vigor. Constant publicity will help to keep the plan ever before the attention of the congressmen who will pass on it.

Surprising Improvement

Until this year policemen were detailed to the municipal wharves to collect the fees from motorists who parked their cars there.

Of course it was not appropriate work for policemen, and after a good deal of discussion of proposed changes in the manner of handling the business, including the offer of a private company of a large sum for the parking concession for a five-year period, the job was turned over to the City Treasurer's office.

Now City Treasurer R. W. Thompson reports that he collected parking fees totaling $20,461 from the first of the year up until last Monday, which compares with total collections of $11,824 by the police during the corresponding period last year.

This surprising increase raises some interesting questions. Are almost twice as many cars parked on the wharves this year as last, as the figures would suggest? Or could it be that the police failed to collect from many of the motorists last year?

During courtship, we feed each other applesauce in large quantities. But, after marriage, no matter how much we love and admire each other, we just dole it out grudgingly, as though the doctor had forbidden it.

* * *

It is almost pathetic to see how pleased and fluttered a man is at a mild back-handed compliment from his wife. He is positively flattered to be told that he "looks better" in dark blue ties or in plain colors than in "those flashy things" he's been wearing.

Or that the high collar he has on "hides his Adam's apple and is becoming." Or that he has at last got a hair-cut that makes him look "quite human." Or that he is "dancing better tonight and learning to keep his feet out of the way."

* * *

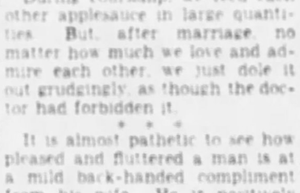
Any seasoned married man is touched by his wife's assertion that "glasses are becoming to him and make him LOOK intellectual." Or "distinguished."

* * *

He is absolutely flushed with pride at her generous admission that he "may have a lot of faults, but, thank Heaven, he's not like that awful Bill Jones!"

* * *

And, in the same way, a married woman gets a great big thrill, when her devoted spouse tells her that she "looks five years younger in the blue hat than in the white one."



Or that he's "glad she doesn't dye her hair or overpaint like that Smith woman." Or that she "surely can rustle up a good meal when she TRIES."

* * *

No wife expects her husband to rave about her "glorious eyes" or her brilliant wit or her angelic character. And no husband expects his wife to wax ecstatic over his marvelous business acumen, his giant intellect or his noble generosity.

* * *

They are quite delighted if he finds the cut of her gown or the flavor of her muffins worth mentioning, and she finds the color of his cravat and his careful driving worth noting.

* * *

No. A married man—or a married woman—is seldom overfed on flattery. Which is probably why they are so often less cocky and self-complacent and more modestly grateful for a little applesauce, after a few years of the ego-reducing diet.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 20.—Thoughts while strolling: If that isn't Vina Delmar, it's her double. Song and dance lay-offs around West 47th street. Sime Silverman's Sid. His dad gave him Variety. Overheard: "She's slipped me the chuck." The Rialto is not the same without Morris Gest.

No spire so estable as the Empire's. Buddy de Sylva always suggests Hawaii. And Robert Coleman Valentino. Earl Derr Biggers, a Warren, O., boy, who made good in the city. I wonder if outside of New York they jeer prohibition speakers in the newsreels.

That giant of the circus sideshow wandered in from a ranch near El Paso to see the show. And as a freak has seen the world. None looks less like an orchestra leader than B. A. Rolfe. Or more like a capitalist than Charles M. Schwab. New York's best dressed actor never had a manicure.

One-word description of Brock Pemberton — languid. That cop who bawls me out for jay walking would feel silly if I turned out to be a Wendel heir. Leonore Ulric should always wear a touch of red. Not so sure the movies didn't make a mistake in letting Buddy Rogers get away.

Another favorite person—the old gadabout Bob Davis. Floyd Gibbons has to sneak out back doors to dodge autograph hounds. Katherine Brush is stunning in black. Bob Scripps' beard is getting a touch of gray. Something amiable about those fellows called Solly. What a square face Ethel Merman has!

That vague loneliness when a liner heads for the deep. They lift faces without knives these days, putting your head in a cast for 18 days. Mary Pickford had an alert press agent on her recent visit. Page One every day. Sid Solomon's high collars. Ralph Barton's brother Homer.

Nothing was ever so impersonal as the blink of a star. Lots of New York taxi drivers look like James Cagney. Lindy and his Mrs. Well barbered roues who appear around 8 p. m.—bees hunting honey. Nellie Revell carries on. A British toff's monocle ribbon in snow white—dash me bloody pink!

* * *

The suicide of Chief Buffalo Lance at the Lucky Baldwin ranch a few weeks ago was a shock to New York writers. For fears he attended the yearly roundup at the Dutch Treat show. He was an amazing paradox, a vanishing Red Man with an Oxonian accent, spats and monocle. About a year ago I asked Long Lance to autograph one of his books. He inscribed graciously and somewhat prophetically: "I hope to find your column when I reach the Happy Hunting Ground—Long Lance."

Grape fruit in a Park avenue restaurant is 60 cents. But Grape Fruit aux Marvellieux is 90 cents. This is grape fruit drenched with juice of half an orange.

Among newer conceits of the bloods is a Russian cigaret case, a cumbersome dingus with a foot-long silken rope and tassel end, done in various colors. The tassel dangles from the right side pants pocket of full evening dress. The innovation bloomed during the last days of the czars in Petrograd. Recently a few exiled dukes gave it new life in Paris. The immaculate Pepy de Albrew, a Tory in sartorial taste, was first to sport it on this side. Paul Whiteman was next. They cost around $1,000.

Tahiti was not so extravagantly acclaimed by returning voyagers as in novels and films recently. To most strangers it presaged the patina of paradise. Jules Glenzer, who headed an expedition for this outer rim of the globe, came back with a saddle-colored tan, but only a greatsworth of enthusiasm. The same indifference has been marked among all the other visitors. The Polynesian ladies are reported over press-agented and especially in need of dentistry. In other words, nobod, seemed—very deep stuff—crazy with Tahiti!

Depression among furriers recalls Harry Hershfield's yarn of the fur dealer who, when his banker called a loan, inquired if he had ever been in the fur business. He replied, "No." So the furrier announced: "Well, you will be tomorrow."

From Mrs. S., Minneapolis: "In reaching for the paper containing your column this morning, the wind blew the door shut on my arm and when I got back to the kitchen the breakfast was burned and my husband went to the office mad as a wet hen."

LISTEN, WORLD -:- -:-

By Elsie Robinson

I've lived a lot;
Made a mess of most of it—
YET I'M PROUD!
Loved a lot;
Broken my heart because of it—
BUT I'M PROUD!

And been laughed at;
And been shown up—
STILL I'M PROUD!
Earned money
And lost it;
Made a name
And muffed it;
Dreamed great visions,
Two-timed 'em all—
YET GONE ON BEING PROUD!

Why?
Listen!
Listen and learn from me,
For this goes for you
As well as for me.
Why'm I proud?
I'm proud because I have life;
Because, out of all the things
I might have been,
I was born a human,
With the beautiful and terrible
Gift of a brain,
And the dangerous and divine
Gift of a soul.

I'M PROUD I HAVE LIFE,
AND PROUD BECAUSE I

DARED TO LIVE IT,
Even though I made a mess of it.
Proud because,
Once in a million times,
I've been brave.
Even though I'm a coward;
And once in a million times
I've been honest,
Even though I'm a liar;
And once in a million times
I've been wise and kind,
Even though I'm stupid and cruel.

I'm proud I could dream,
Even though I wallowed;
Proud I could pray,
Even while I blasphemed;
Proud that something in me
Was always taller,
Always finer,
Always whiter,
Than my outward acts.

Most of all, I'm proud
Because I've loved;
Because I dared to demand love;
Dared to risk everything I had
In the service of love;
Dared to go on loving
Even when I failed at love;
DARED TO GO REJOICING
EVEN WHEN I LOST THE ONE
I LOVED!

For love is worth all it costs,
Anything it costs—
Tears, prayers, shame, suffering,
Loneliness, heartache, a grave.
Life is worth anything.

I'm proud because I've learned it;
Proud because I've risked it.
And no matter what the learning cost,
I hope there'll be more to buy,
more to pay.
More living, more loving,
Forever more!

And if there isn't any more?
If this is all there is?
Then STILL I'LL BE PROUD,
STILL GLAD I'M BORN!
And if, in that last moment
Before the long darkness,
I shall see Death stand waiting,
God, give me the gumption
To whoop in his ear:
"LO, DEATH, YOU OLE TWO-SPOT!
"YOU THINK YOU CAN SCARE ME?
"YOU'VE COME HERE TO TAKE ME?
"BALONEY! STOP KIDDING!
"GET THIS!

"YOU'RE NUTS.
"YOU CAN'T HURT ME,
"OR ROB ME, OR BREAK ME.
"I'VE LICKED YOU, YOU FAKER.
"I'VE LIVED!"

Back to Sound Taxation

By Merryle Stanley Rukeyser

CONGRESS will soon learn that economic realities cannot be cowed or changed by demagogic utterances.

It must be apparent by this time to the rank and file of the membership of both Houses that the alternative to a sound taxation measure is economic chaos.

Business has been disheartened in recent weeks by the detour which Congress has threatened to take on the taxation question.

But the logic of events is likely to drive the national Legislature back to the main road.

Ever since the famous utterance by Chief Justice Marshall, Americans have known that the POWER TO TAX IS THE POWER TO DESTROY.

The hodge podge tax bill, in either the mangled House or tentative Senate version, will fail to produce the revenue needed soundly to balance the budget.

BUSINESS IS IN NO TEMPER FOR PUNITIVE TAXATION.

IN THE interest of promoting employment opportunities and relieving widespread distress, Congress should forthwith recognize the desirability of a taxation plan which will hearten employers.

The goal should be to enlarge the social dividend through a revival of prosperity, rather than to seek to get an even larger ratio for the government of a dwindling national income.

Furthermore, from a mere revenue collecting standpoint, it is futile to base taxation on the evanescent factor of business profits, instead of on the MORE STABLE BASE OF BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS.

To be specific, 239 industrial companies which have already reported for the first quarter revealed aggregate earnings of only $26,238,000, against $146,934,000 last year, a decline of 82.1 per cent, according to a compilation by the Standard Statistics Company. Likewise, 29 utilities reported $84,110,000, against $96,231,000, a decline of 12.6 per cent; and 29 railroads suffered a net deficit of $9,902,000, compared with aggregate profits of $7,403,000 in the first quarter of 1931. The combined profits of 297 corporations in the first quarter of the current year amounted to $100,446,000, a decline of fully 60 per cent from the result of the corresponding period of last year.

In the light of such data, the congressional cry, "soak the rich," seems hollow indeed. Wealth has already been soaked through a virtual capital levy in the form of deflation in the value of all quoted assets. Though the rich can take care of themselves, the social side of the question is that as a result of the temporary plight of capital, opportunities for employment for the poor have greatly diminished.

CONGRESS can raise the necessary revenue by adopting a widely diffused manufacturers' sales tax, such as has succeeded in Canada and numerous other countries, and by levying excise taxes on light wines and beer, which should forthwith be legalized.

By supplementing existing revenues with imposts from these new sources, Congress can revive confidence by lowering initiative destroying taxes on business efficiency.

With gross business subnormal to a spectacular degree and with unemployment widespread and unrelieved, Congress must respond to the popular cry for measures that will tend to START a spiral of ECONOMIC RECUPERATION.

MARRIAGE

By Winifred Black

The man married the girl so he could tell the company that he was a married man, and then he'd hold his job. Just lately the girl found out about it, and went into court and told the judge. The judge said she was perfectly right to feel injured, and he gave her a divorce—just like that!

She never would have known what made her husband marry her if he hadn't told her one day when he was sort of peevish. I suppose dinner was late, or the apple pie was soggy, or something. Poor thing! I'm sorry for the girl, aren't you?

And yet where do you suppose her eyes were all this time, and where, oh, where was the woman's intuition we hear so much about, and so very very seldom see in action?

Don't you suppose she suspected the truth all the time, and just wanted the man, and thought to herself: "After we are married, I will make him love me?"

How can a man make a woman believe he loves her when he doesn't care the paring of his fingernail for her? Love is as easy to see as the measles, it seems to me.

Doesn't many a man marry because he's tired of boarding-houses and can't afford a club, and thinks it would be nice to have a pretty little girl make his coffee for him and tell them how handsome he looks in that new tie?

What if the men should suddenly decide to divorce the women who married them just for homes?

One of the girls in the office gets married and begins to choose furniture and hem curtains, then all the other girls in the office start to looking around for somebody who will buy furniture and curtain material for them, too.

How many cases do you think there are where a girl marries because she is so desperately in love with some one particular man that she can't live without him?

"Son, you're getting along to the time when you ought to settle down. Why don't you look around for a nice girl? There's Hilda or Emeline or Lisa—they're all nice girls, and each one of them has a tidy little sum which would help to furnish the new home. Don't wait too long, son. You'll get out of the marrying idea and that's bad."

Son stops, looks and listens, and the first thing Lisa knows she has promised to marry son—and why is she going to marry him?

Her older sister is married. Does she have to be left alone to look after the old folks? Not she. So away she trips to the altar and things are pretty well settled for her.

I do hope the example of the Western girl, who got the divorce when she found out exactly why her husband married her won't spread. I'm afraid it would be a little embarrassing, to say the least.
